59 Run 120,000,000.
Birth Control Again.
The Woman Tempted Me.
Look What They Did.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JAMES W. GERARD, formerly ambassador to Germany, says "59 men rule the United States." The remaining 120,000,000 odd will be interested to know that no public official, not even the President of the United States or any member of his cabinet except Secretary Mellon, appears in the list of "those that rule the nation."

It seems impossible, but perhaps it isn't. Sometimes men seem to rule that really do not rule.

Mr. Gerard says "all these men are too busy to run for political office." The really important man, of course, doesn't run when he can send a boy to run for him.

HOWEVER, THE marvelous 59 don't seem to be doing very much running of the nation just at present. They are letting the good old U. S. A. machine coast down hill, while each asks the other 58: "What do you think of the prospects?"

THE MODERN Churchmen's Conference at Oxford is told that birth control is necessary because "unwanted children, whether in or out of marriage, are undesirable productions, misfortunes alike to themselves and their parents."

Birth control must regulate the family hereafter, one preacher said, also "too often marriages are wrecked early, either by the stupidity of the man or the false modesty of the woman."

The history of marriage begins with the statement: "The woman tempted me and I did eat." That excuse has been used since, quite frequently.

Ludendorff, the German general, asking for a divorce, says his wife "deluded him" into attacking the Jews and Masons, which he should not have done, and caused him to adopt unorthodox religious practices. Among other things, Ludendorff had accused Jewish airplane and automobile makers of causing wrecks on German railroads, to make rail travel unpopular.

FORMER GOVERNOR Alfred E. Smith is back in politics, with Mr. Raskob, head of the Democratic party, close behind him. Mr. Smith, who was beaten by Mr. Hoover, after he, Mr. Smith, had got the biggest Democratic vote ever cast, a vote as big as that of President Coolidge, is going out to campaign for congressional and other Democratic candidates.

THIS TEXT will be put in more eloquent language: "Look what the Republicans did to you."

Unless something cheerful happens to prosperity, soon, others in the coming election will probably give fairly accurate figures concerning men out of work now.

A CABLE from London says the Russian government plans a "world-wide uprising of Negroes," beginning with propaganda among colored men in the United States. "Black hands" are to overthrow "capitalistic government." It is an interesting fairy tale. If Russians able to understand industrial conditions will come to the United States, they will learn that "capitalistic government" looks upon the colored man as one of its best friends, extremely useful when labor is scarce, to keep white workers from being "too uppity."

THE HON. GEORGE DALLAS, M. P., tells Chautauqua listeners that he sees poverty ahead for Great Britain and a "black winter." He blames the Allies.

Winston Churchill, intelligent grandson of an able American stockbroker, who recently visited this country, finds many things wrong with England and wants MacDonald and his Labor government to get out.

Churchill says the "wretched Socialists" must go, to restore the world's confidence in Britain.

He and the Hon. George may be mistaken.

SOME READ with surprise the statement that organized crime in the United States, including bootlegging, takes in each year an amount running into billions, far in excess of the total revenues of the United States government.

It is no exaggeration. The get-rich-quick rascals, racketeers, gangsters and bootleggers collect, spuander and distribute in bribes a revenue greater than that of Uncle Sam.

One little item in the organized racketeering shows that in New York, the "milk gang" levy on milk dealers amounts to $1,185,000 a week, and that is only one of a thousand "rackets."

CHARLES MRZENA, who calls himself "bishop of the Czechoslovak Orthodox Catholic Church," is convicted of bootlegging. Prohibition lets clergymen of all denominations have wine for sacramental use.

YORK'S HEIR GIRL, WALES MAY WED

Glamis Reports Duchess, Child 'Doing Fine' After Birth of Second Daughter

LONDON, Aug. 22. — A second daughter having been born to the Duke and Duchess of York last night, the Prince of Wales will marry within a year,

At least that is the fond hope of Britain today, recalling the promise the prince is said to have made to the Duchess of York only a few weeks ago.

The Prince, it was reported, told his sister-in-law that if her second child should be a girl, he would marry inside of a year. He also is reported to have told King George and Queen Mary of this decision.

EXPECT EARLY SEARCH

Last night's news from Glamis Castle, Scotland, that a second daughter had been born to the Duchess finds Britain inclined to believe the Prince will soon start his long-postponed search for a bride.

The report of course, was never officially confirmed, nor was it honored with a denial. The rumor has persisted doggedly for some time, however, and there are many in Britain today who turn toward the prince with the expectation he will consent to a "marriage of state," in the interests of his dynasty.

Another school of thought, on the other hand, is equally confident the prince is a confirmed bachelor, and has no intentions of marrying under any condition, at least until after he ascends the

LAST HATFIELD DIES IN BED

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—William Anderson (Cap) Hatfield, known as the last of the Hatfield-McCoy feudists of West Virginia and Kentucky, died today at a hospital here at the age of 67.

He was brought here a few days ago from his Logan (W. Va.) home, suffering from a brain ailment that had no connection with a wound sustained in the long feud war of a half century ago which took several score lives. His father, Anderson Hatfield, known as "Devil Anse," died in 1921, past 80.

With the younger Hatfield when he died were his wife, a son and a daughter.

Cap Hatfield was a powerful man of a picturesque type. He once confided to friends that many of his old-time foes believed he had a charmed life, saying he "guessed" he was shot at about 300 times during the mountain warfare, and was wounded but once.

Boat Picks Up Cap, Believe it Black's

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS.)—Finding of a yachting cap believed to be that of Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, who disappeared from his yacht off the New Jersey coast Monday night, raised the hope today that the body of the sportsman would be recovered. The cap was partially identified as that of Black.

Finding of the cap by a passing boat followed charges made by Capt. John N. Kelley, of the Black yacht, the Savalo, that a Coast Guard boat refused to aid him in searching for the missing publisher.

JUNIOR EVENT OPENS A. A. U. MEET HERE

N. Y. Athlete, Unattached, Wins 3-Mile Walk After Leaders Are Disqualified

By JESS CARVER.

THE STADIUM, Aug. 22.—The annual National Track and Field Championships of the A. A. U. got under way in the Pitt Stadium this afternoon before the usual Pittsburgh track-meet crowd — of about 200 people. Competition in the junior division occupied the time of the athletes, gathered here from all sections of the United States for the inaugural contesting.

The opening event, the three-mile walk, an event which could be and should be run at night, after all spectators have gone home, was won by A. Podbielski, an unattached athlete from New York, after Irving Farber, of the New York Y. M. H. A., was disqualified 220 yards from the finish line. M. Davis, also a New York Y. M. H. A. man, was second, and John Deni, of the P. R. R., was third.

Only three of the starting field of six finished, which, for a three-mile walk is considered good. Two of the boys were disqualified, both, oddly enough, when they were in the lead. Edgar Wilson, of the Boston A. A. was out in front by 50 yards at the mile mark when the officials, following the race in a police motorcycle, called him for running and ruled him out of the face.

The time was 23 minutes 53 1-5 seconds, almost a minute faster than the time made last year in the meet at Denver.

Charles Kaster, Olympic Club, and Johnny Morriss, Southwestern Teachers, won the first and second heats, respectively, in the 120-yard high hurdles. The time for each heat was :15 2-5.

ARCTIC FLIERS DEAD 33 YRS. FOUND

Bodies of Balloonists Who Attempted to Fly Across Pole in '97 Discovered

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The icy grip of the Arctic loosed a 33-year hold today and gave up the bodies of three daring adventurers, lost in an ill-starred attempt to fly across the North Pole in 1897.

A Central News dispatch from Oslo reported that a group of Norwegian hunters, penetrating the uncharted wastes of Franz Josef Land in search of game, stumbled across the tattered remains of Salomon August Andree, long-lost Swedish engineer, and two companions, who left Spitzbergen in 1897 on an attempt to cross the pole in a free balloon.

BODIES IDENTIFIED

The bodies were identified by shreds of clothing preserved by the frigid air of the Arctic, as well as documents and diaries which withstood the ravages of time and the elements.

A message to the Copenhagen newspaper Dagbladet stated the bodies of Andree and one of his companions were fully dressed and well preserved.

The bodies were in a temporary camp situated behind a cliff 170 yards from shore, apparently established by the adventurers after their balloon made a forced descent hundreds of miles from the nearest outpost of civilization.

LOG BOOK FOUND

Of the notes which must have detailed a tragic account of the adventurers' struggle against inevitable death, the only indication contained in the dispatch was that Andree had outlived his companions, and had perished in incredible solitude days or weeks after his companions had succumbed from starvation, injuries or exposure.

The bodies are now en route to Sweden.

QUEEN OF BANDIT 'MOB?'

HELEN SHAFER, 17, AT MORALS COURT

The young Etna girl held with six youths as the "mob" that has been preying upon taxi drivers in Pittsburgh and environs. Police termed her "Bandit Queen" of the young gang.

SIX YOUTHS INVOLVED IN 'RACKET'

No Thrill in Robbing Taxi Driver, She Tells Police; Admits But One Stickup

A 17-year-old Etna brunet was under arrest today as the leader of a young bandit gang which held up "petting" parties and taxicab drivers.

Arrested with her were six young men of Millvale, all of whom were identified by a half-dozen taxicab drivers at Central Police Station.

In an explanation of her escapade the girl said:

"I know Jimmy Murphy and I went away with him just one time. We got a taxicab driver, but I didn't get any thrill out of it. Jimmy thought that I might like to go along with him. I've never been in any trouble before and I didn't think I was doing any harm."

Police say one of the prisoners admitted that he and the girl—Helen Shafer, of Butler street, Etna—would hire a cab downtown, order the driver to take them to a secluded section, where others of the gang would lay in wait to rob the driver of his cash, according to Detective Walter Monaghan.

The gang also held up several petting parties in Babcock boulevard, the detectives say.

GIRL ARRESTED

The girl was arrested late last night after the roundup of the gang. Information obtained from Joseph Kleitz, 19, of Mt. Troy road, who was picked up in Oliver avenue, was said to have implicated the girl and the youths in taxicab stickups.

High Primary Costs Deplored by Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 22.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

A serious weakness of the direct primary is the cost to the candidate. The picture of an electorate, eager and informed, going to the polls to defeat all that is bad and to elect all that is good has proven an illusion. Human nature, in spite of legislation, is still human nature and functions accordingly. Securing good government by presenting good issues and candidates to the people requires work and money.

Calvin Coolidge

At an election this is provided by the party organization. In a primary the candidates must have their personal organization, involving large expense in a large state.

Oftentimes in politics too much money defeats itself, but not always. Then when the person apparently elected with no violation of any state or national law is presented to take the oath of office, trouble begins. The Federal constitution specifies the qualifications of office holders and the method of election. Yet when all these requirements are met admission to the Senate may be denied.

Large personal expenditures are an evil. Their necessity can be removed by returning to the original method of election. But it is even worse for the Senate to evade or violate the constitution in an effort to apply "an extra legal remedy."

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN RUM DEATH

Stanley Smith, 1811 Manhattan street, North Side confectioner, fined $50 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in North Side Police Court yesterday, after a man had died, according to police, from drinking moonshine in his establishment, was rearrested today on a manslaughter charge preferred by Coroner William J. McGregor.

McGregor said, however, that analysis of the liquor imbibed by Charles Richards, 51, the victim, showed no trace of poison, but had an alcoholic content of 45 per cent.

The autopsy, according to the morgue report, showed Richards died of acute alcoholism.

Walter Kruhles, 12-year-old stepson of Smith who, police allege, sold the liquor, is being detained by Juvenile Court attaches.

An investigation is being made by McGregor, he said, to determine if Richards drank any liquor other than that reported purchased from Smith.

Income Tax Cut May Be Continued

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, said after a call on President Hoover today there was a "possibility and even a probability" that the emergency one per cent tax cut on normal incomes this year might be continued next year.

Mr. Mills would not go into details at the White House but hurried back to the treasury, where he said a statement would be issued later.

'BETTER 'OLE' AUTHOR SUED

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS.)—Charles Bruce Bairnsfather, internationally famous cartoonist and playwright, is being sued for separation by his wife, Mrs. Cecilia Bairnsfather, it became known today.

Mrs. Bairnsfather is also contemplating another legal action. Her lawyers are seeking Constance Collier, the actress, armed with a summons to appear in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit.

Miss Collier and Bairnsfather collaborated in a play last year. At the time, Mrs. Bairnsfather had gone to England to visit relatives, one of whom is her sister-in-law, Lady Hamilton Russell.

Bairnsfather during the World War leaped into fame as the cartoonist creator of "Old Bill" and was producer of the stage comedy, "The Better 'Ole."

LOTTERY FIGHT IN HOSPITAL

The scene of the latest "numbers" development shifted today to the kitchen of the Presbyterian Hospital. A riot call from the hospital sent a squad of North Side police to the scene.

Under chairs and tables police found the dozen Negro employes of the kitchen. Two of these were bleeding from knife wounds and were removed to another department in the building where they told their stories to police.

Peace and quiet were disturbed when a Negro, who says he is Allen Epps, 24, of 608 Henderson street, and who says he writes "numbers" for the hospital help, entered the room to take "orders."

Carol's Ex-Wife Reported Ready to Enter Convent

LONDON, Aug. 22. — (INS.) — The London Daily Herald, through a special correspondent, reported today that Queen Helen, divorced wife of King Carol, of Rumania, has definitely abandoned any intention of becoming reconciled and planned to enter a convent shortly.

The correspondent reported her intently interested in hospital work and engrossed in religious books. The convent she will enter has been chosen, he added.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 22. — A blanket denial of all reports to the effect that King Carol II was contemplating any marital contract beyond a reunion with Queen Helen, who divorced him, was given out last night by a responsible Rumanian court official.

Efforts to bring a royal reconciliation are proceeding, the court official said, but difficulties present themselves almost daily.

PHILADELPHIA CHIEFS REPORTED SWINGING TO PINCHOT

VARE FIGHTS MOVE, EAST HEARS

Leader Resumes Activity in Politics; Mayor Mackey Backs Former Governor

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Reports were heard in political circles today that indorsement of Gifford Pinchot as the regular Republican candidate for governor would be made by the Philadelphia Republican city committee at a special meeting early in September. Whether the indorsement would be unanimous was problematical.

The reports were circulated after a number of conferences by members of the Vare war board and other Republican ward leaders, who were reported to have demanded a "show down" on the policy to be followed in the gubernatorial campaign.

VARE ACTIVE

William S. Vare, leader of the local organization in the last 10 days has assumed his old-time activity, attending numerous political conferences and outings at which he has made short speeches, but he has not disclosed whether he would join in a public endorsement of Pinchot. In fact, it is reported that he is opposing the movement to have the city committee give its formal endorsement.

Mayor Harry A. Mackey is understood to have given Pinchot assurance that he and the group of ward leaders who have been affiliated with him since the unsuccessful attempt to name John F. Dugan as register of wills can be depended upon to give Pinchot loyal support. This assurance was said to have been given long in advance of the validation of the former governor's right to the Republican nomination by the State Supreme Court.

Among other potent factors in the local organization who have declared they would not support Pinchot are Deputy Coroner Arthur Sellers and Joseph C. Trainer. In some quarters a movement is under way to induce the voters to support the Liberal party ticket upon which the name of John W. Hemphill, the Democratic nominee, appears.

SEEKS HARMONY

State Treasurer Edward Martin, chairman of the state Republican committee, will take an active part in the effort to harmonize the Philadelphia elements in support of Pinchot with the rest of the party ticket. The state chairman is expected to turn his attention to Philadelphia next week, after a preliminary survey of western counties has been made in conjunction with the "homecoming" celebration in Sharon tomorrow for Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Republican nominee for United States Senator.

Vice President Charles Curtis, Mr. Vare, and James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Philadelphia Republican city committee, will be among the guests at a breakfast to be given by County Commissioner K. V. Babcock in Pittsburgh preceding the Sharon celebration.

EATON DENIES INSTIGATING STEEL SUIT

Generalissimo of Anti-Merger Forces Cross-Examined At Injunction Hearing

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 22.—Cyrus S. Eaton, generalissimo of the forces opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was placed under cross-examination by Newton D. Baker, chief of the pro-merger counsel, as trial of the injunction suit against the consolidation was resumed in Common Pleas Court here today.

He denied that he personally caused International Shares Corporation to bring the suit for an injunction against the merger or that he had underwritten the expenses of the action.

BAKER STARTS QUIZ

Luther Day, chief of the anti-merger counsel, announced the conclusion of his direct examination of the Cleveland financier as soon as the trial opened for its thirty-first day. Baker immediately took up the attack of Eaton's testimony as to why he opposed the merger deal.

The first question directed by Baker was what part Eaton had in bringing about the injunction suit against the merger of Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem.

Eaton replied that he had no part in bringing about the suit, but he admitted that he had cooperated with his associates, International Shares Corporation and the late Myron C. Wick, Jr., who instigated the case.

FIGHT COSTS $62,982

Baker produced a statement showing that the expenses of the anti-merger fight up to July 30, had been $62,982.52 and Eaton admitted this was correct. He also said that he paid "every penny of it."

Evidence tending to show that three members of Eaton's proxy committee which fought the merger were not actual stockholders in the Youngstown company, was read into the court record during the cross examination of Eaton.

Attorney D. Baker asked the Cleveland capitalist if he knew that W. H. Foster, chairman of the General Fireproofing Company, and Julius Kahn, president of Truscon Steel, did not own Sheet and Tube stock.

Eaton said he was not aware of it. Foster and Kahn were members of the original anti-merger proxy committee with the late Myron T. Wick, Jr., of Youngstown, and Hugh B. Wick, of Cleveland. The committee was formed on March 14 and the following day Kahn retired.

M'NIDER WARNS AGAINST PEACE OF DISHONOR

Envoy to Canada Dedicates Pennsylvania's Memorial To Vets, as Legion Cheers

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 22.—Warning against peace at the cost of national honor, Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, American minister to Canada, today dedicated Harrisburg's Memorial Bridge with an admonition to residents of Pennsylvania to live up to the ideals of those who have died defending their country.

In a brief address he paid high tribute to the Pennsylvanians who have fought in all of America's wars. He said they have handed down a heritage of work and life to those remaining, and demanded that the present generation "carry on" as their "invisible buddies" would have them. He said:

"There will be marching today across this great memorial bridge which we are dedicating in their honor a great shadowy host, the men of Pennsylvania who went forth to create this republic and who have gone forth in every emergency to defend and maintain it.

IMMORTAL HOST

"As you go out through all the days ahead, there will march beside each of you one of that immortal number. He will never leave you even in death. You will but join him then in the shadowy ranks of the armies of Pennsylvania.

"There are those among us nowadays who would make light of his sacrifice, who would destroy for one reason or another the national protection and leave the heritage he died to secure at the mercy of a still unsettled world. We all want peace, but not at the cost of our national honor, not at the cost of the loss of American citizenship to our sons or their sons."

NEW CASTLE ACTIVE

Lawrence County veterans are campaigning to secure the 1931 convention for New Castle. Decision was expected to be reached late today.

A boom for Frank Schoble, Jenkintown, a blind veteran of the 80th Division, for election as national commander at the Boston convention, has been started by his friends. Schoble is now a national vice commander and brought greetings to the convention from the national headquarters.

The Rev. W. E. Swoope, of Lebanon, today was elected chaplain on the second ballot. Other nominees were the Rev. Fred Hurd, Jeannette, and the Rev. Corson Snyder, Slatington.

REPUBLICANS NO LONGER BONE DRY

Platform for 1932 Likely To be Rather Lukewarm; Hoover May Run as 'Damp'

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—That the Republican party, in the 1932 presidential campaign, will give heed to the growing anti-prohibition sentiment of the nation was the belief of political observers here today.

While no one predicted the Republican platform would declare for repeal, or even for modification, there was a growing belief the 1932 prohibition plank will be decidedly lukewarm.

Thus President Hoover, whose renomination so far as can be seen at this time appears certain, would in effect seek re-election as a "damp."

HELD NOT DISTASTEFUL

There have been increasing indications of late that this would not be at all distasteful to the President.

It was considered significant that only Wednesday, George W. Wickersham, chairman of the President's Law Enforcement Commission, should have stressed its unanimous opposition to the drastic Jones "5 and 10" law.

Addressing the American Bar Association at Chicago, Wickersham declared it unsound to make felonies of petty violations of the dry law.

That Wickersham, as head of the President's most important commission, would not speak counter to the President's views, was said to be patent. It is but a step further, observers pointed out, to say it is unsound to make any sort of a crime of drinking.

MUST BE CONSIDERED

The growing strength of anti-prohibition sentiment throughout the nation is something that both major parties must reckon with, according to the most astute political observers. The Republicans, with much to answer for in the tariff and agricultural unrest, cannot afford to antagonize a still greater element, it is pointed out, by including a bone-dry plank in the 1932 platform, when a lukewarm stand would satisfy the drys and be regarded by the anti-prohibitionists as a major victory.

A gain of 29 anti-prohibition votes in the House is indicated by the state primaries and conventions held to date.

W. & L. E. FIGHTS MERGER PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(INS.)—Alleging there is an intersystem affiliation between the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Pennsylvania railroads, the Wheeling and Lake Erie today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss the application of the P. & W. Va. for authority to acquire the Wheeling and its subsidiary, Lorain and West Virginia railroad.

The railroad also suggested that it be allocated to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate system in the commission's general consolidation plan, rather than to the Wabash-Seaboard system.

The Wheeling told the commission that the principal officers of the P. & W. Va., are affiliated with coal companies which are in competition with Wheeling's operators.

The King Edward Apartments property encroachment tangle was still far from solution today, after Judges Thomas J. Ford and Joseph M. Swearingen in Common Pleas Court continued the hearing granted on a preliminary injunction last Monday in connection with the affair.

John and Anna H. Lauer, owners of a duplex adjoining the King Edward Apartments at Bayard and Craig streets, came into court last Monday and asked a preliminary injunction, charging that A. W. Peterson, owner of the King Edward structure, had workmen chiseling stone from a side wall. This was done, they charged, to forestall a damage suit when it was discovered the apartment house encroached on the Lauer property.

The injunction was continued today until a final hearing date without the judges hearing any evidence. Peterson has 30 days in which to prepare and file and answer, it was stated.

ANONYMOUS TIP REVEALS STILL

This anonymous telephone message was received today at Prohibition Headquarters:

"You raided a club on the second floor at 605 Wylie avenue yesterday, but you missed the still on the third floor."

An hour later prohibition agents visited the third floor and reported finding a distillery and a wildcat brewery. A still was in operation, but the place was deserted.

The agents said they confiscated 3,200 bottles of home-brew beer, 100 gallons of mash and 150 gallons of moonshine whisky.

They confiscated a large quantity of moonshine in an alleged speakeasy at 1408 Clark street.

In a saloon at 1309 Clark street, where Morris Bonn, 38, was arrested, 50 pints of moonshine were reported seized.

Philip Johns, 55, was arrested at 605 Wylie avenue, where agents reported, 30 cases of home brew and several bottles of moonshine were discovered.

Seizure of moonshine at 1421 Wylie avenue led to the arrest of Ralph Goodwin, it was reported.

lumbus Tucker, 49, of 1809 Cliff street, demanded nine cents change he claimed was coming to him from yesterday.

A fight started. Epps, apparently bested, wielded a fruit knife in defense. Tucker received several cuts on the leg. In retaliation Tucker grasped a butcher knife and drove it into his opponent's back.

The noise of the combat brought doctors and nurses to the scene, and police interference followed.

The men's condition is not serious.

Three men who admitted writing numbers this morning at a hearing in East End Police Court were fined by Magistrate Charles Papale.

The men, Walter Jackson, 22, Negro, of 6931 Chaucer street; John Wojcoski, 22, of 1832 North Murtland avenue, and Richard Jackson, 20, brother of Walter Jackson, of 6931 Chaucer street.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR WARNERS

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—A petition asking for the appointment of a receiver for Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and an accounting, was filed today with the clerk of the Court of Chancery here by Ira A. Nelson, a Boston business man, who said he was a stockholder in the corporation.

The petition charges mismanagement on the part of the officers, and alleges that excessive prices have been paid for theaters and real estate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., said today that charges contained in the suit for a receivership filed in Wilmington, Del., were unfounded and that proper answer and adequate proof disproving them would be made at the earliest possible moment.

Records of the company show Ira A. Nelson, the plaintiff, has 300 shares of stock registered in his name. The stock dropped to the year's lowest price at 24 on the New York Stock Exchange shortly after filing of the suit. Later the stock rallied again.

Mrs. McCormick Waits Illinois Referendum

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 22.—(Universal.)—If elected United States senator in November, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee, will hop on the anti-dry bandwagon provided the November 4 statewide referendum on prohibition convinces her the people want the dry laws modified.

That is the position her intimates said here she will take at the Republican state convention today.

She declined to confirm or deny the prediction.

Her attitude has been awaited for some time by anxious Republican leaders, and more especially since Col. James Hamilton Lewis, her Democratic rival, and the Democratic state convention here Wednesday, went on record as demanding repeal of all prohibition measures.

It was stated further by Mrs. McCormick's associates that she will tell the convention she personally is dry, that she favors the dry laws, and that she will urge the electorate to vote dry at the referendum.

But, as a concession to the pleas of the anti-dry Republican organization in Cook County and the other moist centers of the state, she is willing to abide by the majority opinion.

This, it was explained, does not mean she would vote against prohibition in the Senate merely because the referendum shows a majority of anti-dry votes. The verdict must be decisive and the total of ballots on both sides must reflect a wide and general participation.

New Process Discovered For Making Talkies

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—George K. Spoor, pioneer in the motion picture industry and co-inventor of the recently announced stereoscopic, natural vision camera, announces that he has found a new process for making talking pictures.

Mr. Spoor said the process had been worked out by a series of experiments begun at Chicago in March, 1929, in conjunction with J. John Berggren and Fred J. Lindbergh, Chicago electrical engineers. He declared the process would be in operation at Chicago theaters in about a week.

The new process carves sound grooves in the movie films, like the lines on a phonograph disc. A small "pick-up" device on the projection machine takes the place of the phonograph needle, in transferring the sound from the film to the loud-speakers.

Hoover Greets Steward For Many Presidents

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Edward S. Faag, who says he fed every President since Grant with the exception of Wilson and Harding, today added his treasury of memories a sympathetic nod of recognition from President Hoover.

The white-haired hotel steward called at the White House yesterday and won a broad smile from the Chief Executive by recalling the President's concern over food for Herbert, Jr., one day about 20 years ago in San Jose, Cal.

Leaving the executive mansion, Faag commented on the famous men he had served:

"McKinley was the easiest to please, the most delicate about his eating; Roosevelt was the hardest to feed.

"Coolidge minced — a light eater, a very light eater.

"I don't know about Mr. Hoover's eating. The time I served him I never guessed he was to be President.

"Many a huckleberry pie I sent to President McKinley; he loved it. Taft ate more than any other man I ever fed and was frank and jovial about it."

Coming from Virginia to pay his respects to President Hoover, the old steward donned his badges of Confederate service. The President could not place his caller. Faag's face fell. He asked:

"Don't you remember that day in San Jose when you came out to ask me about the little fellow's food?"

President Hoover did. He and Mrs. Hoover had stopped en route to Palo Alto. Mr. Hoover went into the dining room to satisfy himself that his son's food was healthful. The steward reassured him.

TRUCE BETWEEN AIMEE, 'MA,' SOUGHT BY FOLLOWERS

BAN VISITORS TO 'MUZZLE' RIVALS

Evangelist Decides She's 'Sister of Sorrow,' Tells Of Her Mother's 'Cruelty'

International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 22.—That a concerted move is under way to reconcile Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her warring mother, Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, was widely rumored today as a ban suddenly was placed on visitors on the two rest homes where they are stopping.

It was also said efforts were afoot to halt further asserted provocative statements by the two women.

"Sister of Sorrows" is the new name adopted by the evangelist as the result of the latest Angelus Temple ruction with her mother, the evangelist declared in her first extended interview since her nerve attack. Mrs. McPherson said:

"I woke up in the middle of the night last night—I was crying—I don't want to make a fool of myself.

PICKS NEW NAME

"I've decided that I have a new name. I thought of it last night.

"I called myself 'sister of sorrows.'

"It seemed I have been deserted by everyone except these dear, close friends about me."

As she made this statement, the evangelist's eyes roved about the room until they were fixed on Mae Waldron and Emma Schaffer, her confidantes.

MOTHER "CRUEL"

"It seems so cruel that mother will not let these matters rest.

"Why does she want to keep up this tirade of untruth?

"Mother can't get along with members at the temple, so she is now attempting to take her spite out on me.

"I have worked so hard all my life, but it seems so futile to try to carry on, with mother's continuous bickering and the dissension she is causing.

WANTS HER TO GO

"I want her to go away and let us carry on our work without friction.

"Mother's story of this so-called fist battle at Angelus Temple is ridiculous.

"She attempted to start vicious gossip at the temple. I called her into conference about it. She became hysterical and fell down. That is when she injured her nose. I never raised my hand against my mother."

EXPULSION PREDICTED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—(INS.)—Expulsion of Mrs. Minnie Kennedy from future affairs of Angelus Temple was predicted today as the outcome of open warfare between Mrs. Kennedy and her evangelist daughter, Aimee Semple McPherson.

A set of secret resolutions drawn up by officials of Angelus Temple and sanctioned by Mrs. McPherson were ready to be presented to "Ma" Kennedy today.

Although the resolutions were kept secret it was reported they would demand Mrs. Kennedy cease all connection with the temple.

WAR COUNCIL HELD

The temple war council was held at the bedside of Mrs. McPherson last night in her Malibu Beach cottage.

Mrs. Kennedy meanwhile was still a patient at a sanitarium where she insists she is recovering from the effects of a fractured nose as the result of a quarrel with her daughter. Of the reported move to oust her from the temple she said:

"They needn't tell me to get out, because I'm already out, and I wouldn't go back if they gave me the place."

SUES NEIGHBOR FOR RICH ACRE

Mrs. Ella Abbott, 65, of Bower Hill road, Scott township, through counsel, asked common pleas court today for an injunction to prevent "her friend and neighbor," Jack Gerhold, of Upper St. Clair township, from selling or mortgaging an acre of land on the Bower Hill road.

The tract, part of 25 acres of the estate left to Mrs. Abbott by her late husband, is situated in the heart of a newly developed section of Mt. Lebanon, and, although once merely low-priced farmland, now is said to be worth $10,000.

According to the petition, Mrs. Abbott deeded the acre to Gerhold for the privilege of borrowing $12,000 from him. Mrs. Abbott, according to the petition, also paid a high rate of interest for the loan. She is asking that the deed be canceled.

The petition says Gerhold has built a fence around the property and has employed a man with a shotgun to guard against trespassers.

WAYNESBURG, Aug. 22.—Judge A. H. Sayres has awarded a new trial to William "Big Red" Camardo and Joe Vita, Masontown men convicted of liquor law violations in June, after they had been trapped when a Waynesburg college student was used as a decoy to let the two deliver a case of liquor to the college campus.

The court ruled the district attorney erred in opening the case by a saying he believed Camardo guilty rather than that he suspected him.

Among those revealed to have received checks from Zuta were Nate De Lue, business manager for the Chicago Board of Education; Attorney Simon Herr, and Paul W. Rothenberg, Republican ward committeeman.

Zuta's records also yielded telegrams and letters which might tend to show an attempt was planned to influence Gov. Carlton, of Florida, in appointing a criminal judge and a criminal prosecutor.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Cliff Edwards, known on the screen and stage as "Ukulele Ike," was in court yesterday to show cause why he should not pay his estranged wife, Irene Edwards, $250 weekly alimony pending trial on her divorce suit.

Edwards resisted payment, he said, on the ground he had given his wife more than $150,000 in a property settlement a year ago. Edwards told the judge:

Contest Seeks '12 Greatest Women in America'

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(Universal)—Who are the 12 greatest women in America?

Good Housekeeping Magazine is asking the question, and will pay $5,000 in prizes for the best answers.

The process of selection will occupy four months, following which the magazine will commission a distinguished artist to paint the portrait of each of the 12 selected, thus founding the "gallery of great American women."

The board of judges who will make the final selections after nominating ballots have been received for four months is composed of Otto H. Kahn, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Newton D. Baker, Booth Tarkington and Bruce Barton. No woman is included on the board, says the magazine, because any woman qualified to serve might herself be qualified for selection.

Any individual will be eligible to cast one nominating ballot. In addition, the magazine will offer 177 cash prizes to writers of the best 200-word letters accompanying the nomination ballots. The first prize of $500 will be followed by others ranging downward to 100 prizes of $10 each.

Although it puts no rigid definition on the term great, the magazine makes these suggestions:

"We think it would not be disputed that a great woman must have served her own community or the country at large in some distinctive way, professionally or artistically; as a social worker, an educator, a philanthropist, an artist, a leader in economic or sociological movements that have made and are making life the splendid thing that it can be."

Last 'Lumber Baron' Dies In His Hermit's Shack

MANISTEE, Mich., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Death came last night to Charles F. Ruggles, last of the Michigan lumber barons, and found him in the plain little room where he had lived for years, preparing his own meals, scrubbing the floor and spending hours over kettles in which he made candy for distribution to children at Christmas time.

Ruggles, at 84, died a multi-millionaire, but there was little difference in his mode of life during his last days from that of his youth when he saw and seized the opportunities in Northern Michigan's virgin forests. When his contemporaries in the industry went to the cities years ago, and built fine homes, he remained behind, living as he always had lived, wearing moccasins and a lumberjack shirt, with no necktie beneath his long white beard.

When lumbering passed out in Michigan, he turned to salt manufacturing and until last Saturday, when he was stricken ill, was active every work day. He bought into the lumber industry of other states—Minnesota, the Carolinas, Florida, California—and much of the huge estate he left is represented in these holdings.

Ruggles was born in Bangor, Me., March 3, 1846. His parents took him to Oshkosh, Wis., where he worked in a match factory as a youth. The family moved to Manistee because the youth was suffering with phosphorous poisoning from matches, and a physician recommended outdoor life. This led him to become interested in lumber and to his amassing a fortune.

Britain Hails Princess Born as Storm Rages

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 22 — (INS) — Great Britain's newest princess, second child of the Duke and Duchess of York and fourth in line of succession to the British throne, born while a fierce storm drenched the ancestral seat of the Strathmores, was welcomed today by the high and the low of the nation alike.

A bulletin today from Glamis reported mother and child making fine progress. The official message read:

"Her Royal Highness had a restful night and continues to make very satisfactory progress. The infant princess is doing fine."

SCOTLAND EXULTANT

The empire greeted the long expected little bundle announced by Home Secretary Clynes shortly after 9 p. m. with mixed feelings of relief and disappointment but Scotland itself rapturously hailed the second royal baby to be born within its borders in the last 300 years.

"A fine, chubby-faced little girl!"

This was the brief description of the baby given to the world today by Clynes. Tradition had demanded that he be present at the castle to attest the birth of the royal child. He said:

"Soon after the baby was born, I went into the sitting-room adjoining the bedroom of the Duchess. The Duke and other members of the family were standing around a little cot.

"I peered in and saw a fine, chubby-faced little girl, lying wide awake and almost looking cognizant of her own importance.

"The Duke was thoroughly delighted."

Man-like, Clynes forgot to note those details desired by mothers throughout the world, such as color of hair, eyes, weight and whether the baby resembled her father or mother. England was glad, however, to hear his pleasing if brief description of the new arrival.

GET NEWS FROM DUKE

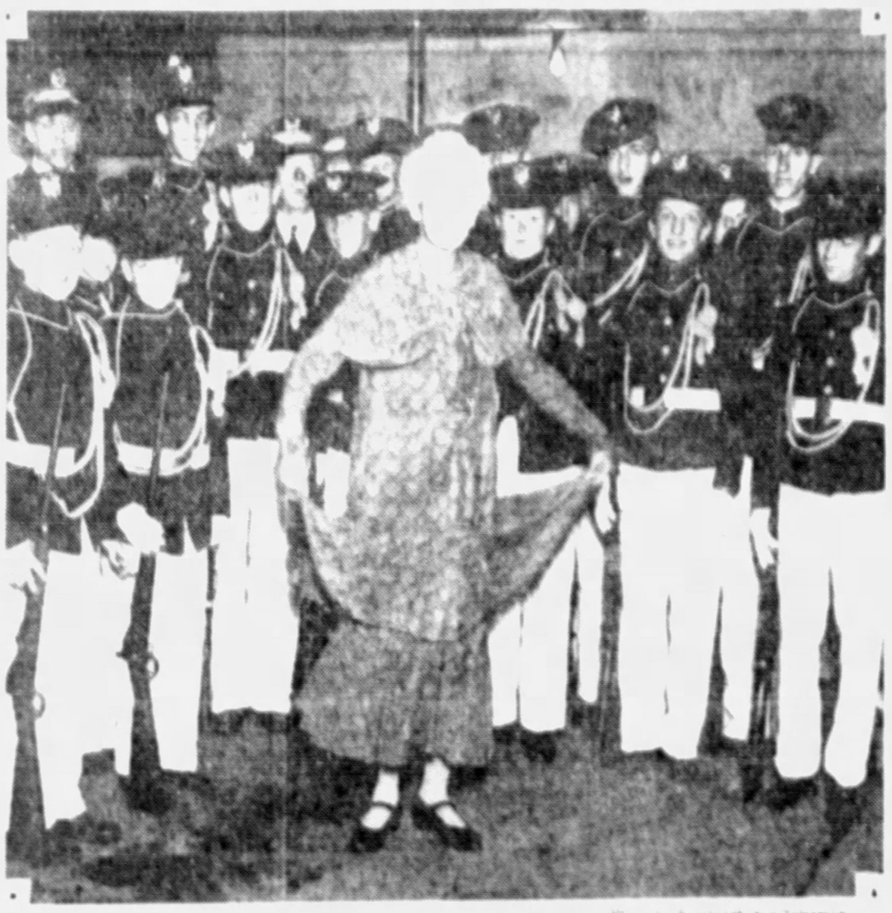
The Duke personally communicated the information to far-away Sandringham, where King George and Queen Mary had kept a special wire open. The Queen immediately led the royal family in a prayer of thanksgiving.

The new princess inherits the same title as her 4-year-old sister, the Princess Elizabeth, following the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and her sister in line for the throne. A boy would have followed the Duke of York as heir presumptive.

However, the chances of the duchess' second child ever ascending the British throne remain dim, as all children of any marriage of Princess Elizabeth will rank higher in line of succession than the new-born babe.

It was understood the baby would be christened Margaret at the font of the castle's private chapel, where Strathmores have been christened for generations.

DANCING AS SHE DID YEARS AGO



"AUNT" MANDY FLEISHER, 81, DANCING FOR COMPANY G, BOYS' BRIGADE
Mrs. Fleisher, as she danced at the annual party of 80 widows of Civil War veterans at the G. A. R. home, Hawkins. An old actress, she was one time partner of Dan Ducrow, famed clown.

DELAWARE MAN TO HEAD BAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 — (INS) — Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, Del., nationally known attorney, was nominated today by the general council of the American Bar Association to succeed Henry Upson Sims, of Birmingham, Ala., as the president of the association. By precedent, the nomination is equivalent to election.

The fifty-third annual meeting was to close today with the election following an address by Lord MacMillan, Lord of Appeal and Justice of the High Court of Great Britain.

The association conferred its highest honor, the medal for most distinguished service to the profession, during his life, upon Elihu Root, of New York, former Secretary of State and recipient of the Nobel peace prize for 1912.

MANDY 'STEPS' AT G. A. R. FETE

Aunt Mandy Fleisher was an actress. She trooped these many years, now she's 81, and when the famous clown, Dan Ducrow, died a few weeks ago, she was saddened. They had been partners.

But last night was different. She felt fine, for hundreds of visitors, members of the various women's auxiliaries of the G. A. R. and their children, visited Aunt Mandy's establishment, which is the home for widows of the Grand Army in Hawkins. The occasion was the annual homecoming party.

The Pennsylvania Railroad sent its 60-piece band. W. P. Cramer and Alfred Morris' harmony crooners also were there. They played and sang after the picnic dinner on the big porches of the home. Then Company G, 3rd Regiment of the Boys' Brigade gave a drill, and a drum and bugle corps contributed its militant notes.

It was all too much for Aunt Mandy. Sick or not sick, those stirring songs the band played touched something deep within her. She left her chair on the porch and, for 80 white-haired associates and while the band played and the crooners sang through their megaphones, Aunt Mandy forgot her 81 years and danced, danced as she had done 60 years ago.

She used steps that weren't modern, but they seemed almost futuristic since the steps of 60 years ago can be strange. She hadn't forgotten. She waltzed, she tapped, she touched on the Tiller girl's march steps.

She'd had applause before. It wasn't new to her. But it pleased her again. The more than 80 white-haired widows of Civil War veterans enjoyed the party and dinner, but they enjoyed Mandy best of all.

"She can do it, she can do it," they murmured to one another.

CAR YIELDS GUN, POLICE HOLD 2

Two young men in whose automobile police say they found a revolver, two boxes of cartridges and a tear gas gun were held over for further investigation today in Central Police Court.

The men, Sam Carighano, 22, of Bellevue, and Philip Piazza, 21, of 4459 Lawrence avenue, Bellevue, were arrested for a traffic violation at Oliver avenue and Smithfield street last night. Search of their automobile disclosed the two guns and bullets, police reported.

Carighano insisted he meant to harm no one, declaring he and Piazza had come to town to shop for Carighano's wedding only a week off. As proof he exhibited a wedding ring he had purchased a short time before the arrest. The two were charged with being suspicious persons.

Police Hunt in Vain For Auto Gunmen

Police today received a report that an automobile bearing an Illinois license plate was speeding through the Hill district while its three occupants waved revolvers at pedestrians. Police shouted the importation of Chicago gunmen and momentarily expected a report of a gang murder. However, no lives have been reported lost and no trace could be found of the speeding gunmen.

Drought Sufferers Denied Road Tax Cut

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Aug. 22 — Tuscarawas County's 22 township boards of trustees refused yesterday to reduce their road levies at the request of County Auditor J. A. Neff, who called the meeting to give tax relief to drought sufferers. The trustees held that road building will give work to farmers and other unemployed.

Store 'Patron' Runs Away With Watch

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 — (AP) — An unknown man walked into a jewelry store and asked to see watches. One valued at $300 was given him for inspection. Waiting his opportunity for a clear path, he made a dash for the door, reached the street and lost himself in the passing crowd.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Am I laughing? But said. So Variety is touchy about paragraph pirates? Wellwellwell. Of all things! Variety is really sensitive about such trifles. So sensitive and fussy about such unimportant things that it opened up finally on that renowned word-thief, Eddie Paramore, Jr., of Hollywood, and let him have it plenty. Oh, well. It's about time, at that. . . . It's about time Variety put the finger on the "Echo" and stopped him from obtaining coin under false pretenses from the unsuspecting Detroit magazine to which he peddled almost the entire contents of Variety. And for juicy coin, too! Did Variety burn? But to a crisp! Going so far as to copyright its contents henceforth. Really? And all I kept thinking about, as I read their blast, was how Variety razzed me whenever I pelled murder about the same sort of lice. Sure. . . . It's different when Variety is the victim. But if the rest of us beef, Variety places its tongue between its teeth and makes one of those loud noises. The last laugh is the heartiest.

Funny world, this. There's the poor guy who worships phonograph records chiefly because some of them offer vocal choruses sung by his favorite warbler. He sits there for hours playing them, never suspecting that his idol is the one his honey Goes For when he isn't looking. Beautiful person, that Velma Ebsen, who is buried at the Babette Club in Atlantic City. When the smart alecks who produce shows finally wise up to her, the Camera will go top over her charm, her class, her Southern drawl, refreshing dancing and her girlish figure. Wasn't it George Jean Nathan who said, "Your medium doesn't matter. If you are good, the right people are sure to hear about you?" There ought to be a law. Hidden away in a seashore honky-tonky when Ziegfeld should have her in his gallery.

It must be a trial when they grow up. It's fun now. They can be bribed now. With pennies, taffy, ice cream and chooing gum. You can say to them, "All right then. Go ahead and make daddy cry." And then you bury your head in your hand and boo-hoo and say, "Poor daddy. His babies do not love him any more or they wouldn't be so wicked and make him unhappy." . . . And then they smother you with adoration and promise to be good, and they let you tuck them into their covers, and you pat their boom-booms, and go out into the street relieved, knowing they love you so and that they wouldn't worry you for the world. . . . There's the frantic mother of Dorothy, however. She's been missing since Thursday, her mother phoned, and I wondered if you would put something in the paper. She always reads you and Mark every night. And if she knew how miserable I am, she would come home at once. Please write something?" . . . "Why not send me her photo or tell me her full name?" I suggested. "Oh, I don't want to do that," mother said, "she's really a good girl, you see. And I wouldn't want to hurt her reputation, for the future." . . . Boys at 18 seldom worry parents. . . . Girls at 18 always do. . . . Girls at 18 have minds. Girls at 18 are women!

Can't get that "I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You" outta my head. . . . Plenty pretty—and pashy. Don't you recall that it all—ended too soon?" . . . That's euphony, rhythm, contagious word-juggling. . . . And it has a mess of torch throughout, too. . . . Etting will make a classic out of it. . . . She has that something in her throat—that hearache wallop—that whatever it is, I can hear her "go to town" on the second chorus. . . . With that syncopated style of hers which they still are trying to ape. . . . She's happily married to the Colonel, so she has to use imagination in her delivery. . . . Wonder how she knows then how to torch a tune that way? . . . She's probably been around people who have been fouled, but who've lived!

Just as some of us thought. . . . The Jim Tully-Arthur Caesar fight was merely another word-duel. . . . Tully charging Caesar with spreading the malicious rumor that he was a heeb-hater. . . . In denying it before a group Tully also gave Arthur a piece of his mind—and he has a mind. . . . As has Caesar, whose best weapon, however, is the wisecrack which he used freely. . . . "How dull you are before righteous indignation!" roared Jim. . . . Not so bad on the snippy retort himself. . . . The Big Idea in Hollywood, it appears, is to top the other guy with a wisey. . . . The contestant getting the biggest laughs, cops the decision. . . . Jack Gilbert is supposed to have crashed the Flip Quipping heavens by calling Herman Mankiewicz, a lesser Jim Tully without Tully's modesty." . . . Gilbert probably heard somebody say that, the records revealing no previous Gilbert epigrams. . . . A sort of a Mildred Harris of the magazines, who told a group the other night that I ought to be called "Vulture" instead of Walter. . . . Witty woman! That's the trouble. . . . You cast your paragraphs on the waters and they come back credited to someone else.

That new definition of a Gigolo certainly swept the town in the hurricane manner. . . . Wonder if those night-loafing lawyers who stagger out of the Asylums around six bells ever win their legal tilts. . . . I didn't mean to listen in on their gab. . . . None of us ever mean to, I guess. . . . But she was so indifferent. . . . He must have broken a hundred matches taking her bitter pills. . . . "What makes me feel so awful," he said, "was that he made me think he was my friend, too. But he'll wish he hadn't, baby. I'll even matters with him some day, believe you me!" . . . "Why even matters with him?" said the indifferent one. "Did it ever dawn on you that I might have been to blame?" . . . There probably is nothing so devastating as hearing them admit it. . . . Wonder where Madge is. . . . And the countless others I once thought I couldn't live without?

A cigaret tastes terrible if you forget to keep it from burning into the desk. . . . Every time I read the obituary pages it seems that everybody who gasped their last that day was either 53 or 56 or fifty-something. . . . That's 20 years to go yet. . . . Hmmm. 20 years of what? . . . June was saying that she wished she could help me. . . . "I want to feel that you have to have me," she said. "Can't you show me how to write those things—so I could bat out some of those magazines pieces for you?" . . . That's all I need. Have her go literary on me. . . . She suggested a theme, however. . . . One that keeps her awake, she said. . . . "Why not write something about how tougher it is trying to stay there after you get there? The higher you go the more dangerous it is because so many people keep shaking the ladder to keep you from sitting too pretty. You see what I mean? It isn't so difficult to climb high as it is to stay there." . . . "I get it," I crowned. "You mean like those window-washers who finally get to the top of the Woolworth or the Chrysler skyscraper and a stiff wind comes along and oop!—they are blown down." . . . "Window-washers," reminded my princess, "are safer. They have those safety-belts, dear."

GERARD ADDS 5 AS 'RULERS'

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, has added five names to his list of 59 men who rule the United States.

The additions are:

Sidney Z. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the Electric Bond and Share Company and a large owner of public utilities.

Walter Edwin Frew, chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company.

Amadeo P. Giannini, founder of the Bank of Italy and of the Transamerica Corporation, the world's largest holding company of bank securities.

In a pamphlet indorsing the crusade of Lord Beaverbrook and Viscount Rothermere for empire free trade and a high British tariff, published in London several days ago, Gerard wrote of "Forty Men who Rule the United States" and suggested such men aided by a high British tariff could mend England's fortunes in 10 years.

Budget Purchase Plan Arranged

Out of the Fog of Confusing Claims . . . and Deceitful Price Comparisons . . . Comes This Important Message That Clarifies the "TIRE SITUATION." Read It Carefully.

ALLSTATE

"FIRST LINE" TIRES Cost No More

Than Other Manufacturers' "Second Line" Tires

It's a Fact . . . . . that every leading tire manufacturer produces two grades of tires . . . namely, a "First Line" and a "Second Line" tire. Sears, Roebuck and Co. likewise has two grades—namely, the famous ALLSTATE—the "first line," and DEARBORN, SR.—the "second line."

It's a Fact . . . . . that tire manufacturers make comparisons with the ALLSTATE Tires by invariably using their "second line" prices for this purpose. Some have even copied ALLSTATE Tires' identical prices for their "second line" tires in this misleading comparison.

It's a Fact . . . . . that this impression of equality with ALLSTATE Tires is unfounded and calculated to make it appear that other tires of equal quality can be bought as low as Sears, Roebuck's famous ALLSTATE—a recognized "First Line" Tire.

It's a Fact . . . . . that the same amount of money buys "First Line" quality in ALLSTATE Tires as against "Second Line" quality in other leading brands.

It's a Fact . . . . . that ALLSTATE Tires are first in replacement sales—that's because users are satisfied that they are receiving the utmost for their money.

It's a Fact . . . . . that Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s tire sales have increased 871% during the last six years, while the tire industry as a whole was increased only 35%. Please re-read this statement.

It's a Fact . . . . . that Sears, Roebuck and Co.—the world's largest store—is able to offer the greatest values because of tremendous volume and economical methods of distribution.

It's a Fact . . . . . that the DEARBORN, SR.—our "Second Line" tire—gives everything in mileage, in service and in satisfaction that any other "Second Line" tire offers. Yet they cost very MUCH less.

ALLSTATE Tires Are Supreme

As "First Line" Tires AT ABOUT ¼ LESS COST!

Remember, please, that "First Line" and "Second Line" Tires are designated by different TRADE NAMES. And it's highly important that you remember this—for judging on the basis of a manufacturer's name alone is far away from the point now in consideration.

GIVE TO Charity BEFORE YOU GIVE UP THE GHOST!

NINE-TENTHS of the history of generous impulses can be summed up in the single word: POSTPONED—think, for example, how many millions for charity are locked up in the Wills of the living waiting for the testators to die!—and think how much more charitable it would be if some of those frozen funds were working now to alleviate human suffering and distress—how much greater is the charity that gives before dying instead of dying before giving!—why not do a little more while you're here and leave a little less when you go?

The DE PAUL INSTITUTE would like to be remembered in your Will but that does not help the DE PAUL INSTITUTE right now—it cannot take care of today's burdens with tomorrow's bequests—its needs are imperative and immediate—it must raise $40,000.00 a year to carry on its Christ-like activity of making the deaf to hear and the mute to speak—and it asks you in your charity to draw a check in behalf of the great charitable work that every hour draws upon it for support.

Bishop Boyle has ordered a collection for this great undertaking in every Catholic Church on Sunday, August 24th, the day on which the Gospel relates the miracle of Christ healing the deaf mute. A dollar from every one in the Diocese of Pittsburgh would carry on this noble charity. If you can both hear and speak, may we count upon your contribution of at least a dollar next Sunday?

GROSS DIVORCE TANGLE GROWS

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 — (AP) — The tangled divorce battle of Christian Gross, war veteran and diplomat against Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, has become further involved.

Counsel for Gross appeared before Judge Fitch in Superior Court, asking that the divorce decree recently granted to Gross by Judge Gentzel be set aside in part. The part of the separation which was attacked was that voiding a trust fund which Gross said he had set up for his wife. Judge Gentzel also issued an injunction restraining Mrs. Gross from taking the money. Since the divorce and injunction granted here by Judge Gentzel however New York courts have ordered Gross to turn the $250,000 over to his wife. The new action was a sequel to the New York ruling, but action on it was deferred when Gross' counsel pleaded that his client was in Washington on business.

Do not harbor any doubt about the merits of Konjola, the really different medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.

JOHN E. GRISER.

Consider for a moment, the case of Mr. John E. Griser, 1618 Forsythe street, Pittsburgh. There are many similar cases about which the Konjola Man at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, can tell you. See him there today. Now read the experience of Mr. Griser:

"For a year past I suffered at different times with neuritis. I was also bothered with constipation. I am not a chronic medicine taker and have taken very little medicine of any kind. I have taken three bottles of Konjola and I feel that it is one medicine that will really do what they say it will do. I am still using it and am going to use it as long as it continues to help me. I have a better appetite and feel much better in every way. I am glad to recommend Konjola to anyone needing a medicine of this kind."

There are a great many men and women who feel, as does Mr. Griser, that Konjola is worth a real trial. Six to eight bottles is the recommended treatment in the average case.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily. Konjola is sold also at all Dow drug stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

OBSERVING HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY LIFE; REVIEW OF NEW FILM

Stage Actors in Majority In Picture Studios, Survey Shows

BY HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD Aug 22

A survey of the players under contract to 10 major Hollywood producers reveals that the motion picture people are not quite holding their own against the Broadway invasion.

These 10 combinations have 141 contract players who have been drafted into the talkies from the stage, against 135 who are identified with pictures alone.

The main stronghold of the film players are Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer where the proportion is 2 to 1, and RKO where it is 3 to 1.

At Fox the stage people outnumber the screen players nearly 2 to 1. Both Warner Brothers and Pathe have twice as many stage performers as film people.

Figures for the 10 companies are as follows: Warners, 20 stage 10 screen; RKO, 6 stage 24 screen; First National, 6 stage 7 screen; Fox 20 stage 10 screen; Paramount 25 stage 50 screen; United Artists 4 stage 9 screen; Samuel Goldwyn 4 stage 2 screen; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 14 stage 31 screen; Pathe 6 stage 3 screen; and Universal 6 stage 1 screen.

Marion Davies

A good many of the stage people already have become big stars in the talkie-films. You can name Will Rogers, Maurice Chevalier, Chester Morris, Walter Huston, Ruth Chatterton, Lawrence Tibbett, Ann Harding, Robert Woolsey, Bert Wheeler and George Arliss, as examples.

On the other hand, the film people can boast of Marion Davies, Warner Baxter, Charles Rodgers, Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Norma Shearer, Ronald Colman, Greta Garbo, Jack Gilbert, Joan Crawford, John Boles, Bebe Daniels, Richard Dix, Richard Barthelmess and many others.

It has been a gruelling test for the film people some of whom never had any stage experience.

LINA'S HUSBAND ASKS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES Aug 22 (AP)—Lina Basquette, dancer and screen actress who recently attempted to commit suicide, has been sued for divorce by Peverell Marley, film cameraman.

Marley charged jealousy alleging at a party May 10 Miss Basquette publicly threatened to slap a girl with whom her husband was dancing. He said further she objected to his work because it brought him in contact with other women.

The couple married January 7 1929 and separated June 14 1930.

When Miss Basquette drank poison two weeks ago because of interference for her 4-year-old daughter Lita adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner of New York, Marley visited her at the hospital and tried unsuccessfully to effect a reconciliation.

The dancer is the widow of Sam Warner of the Warner Brothers Pictures Corporation.

RAZZLE AND BAD MAN ON EXHIBITION IN STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"The Bad Man" opened yesterday on the Stanley screen. And is he—or rather it—bad!

The film is an adaptation of the old stage play that Thurston Hall (remember him?) tried to put over in our town some years ago—say five, six or seven, the same play too that the George Sharp Players, in an amicable mood, handed us a season or so ago.

As a stage play it was rather awful. And as a movie it is nothing more. However, the picture makers have added a little—but the addition really is on the minus side. It gives us nothing but some Rangers galloping over the screen in the interest of the Law and a congenial bandit dying in the interest of something or other.

PLOT A 'RACKET'

The plot of the production has to do with a Mexican gunman who spends a day in "fixing it up" so that a made-to-order hero can marry another man's wife.

The best thing about it all is the idea that a man who won't fight for his "woman" is so low that worms will have to dig a tunnel if they want to pass him by.

Walter Huston, the fellow who did so well as the important gentlemen in "Gentlemen of the Press," the newspaper film, carries the title role—that of the Bad Man. As an actor he is as good as the script allows him to be. The rest of the cast is "out where the West begins!" And that's where it belongs.

WEBSTER, THE CRITIC

On the stage is Master of Ceremonies Gene Morgan in an affair titled "Razzle Dazzle." And, if you take our word for it—and in spite of other featured entertainers—it is mostly "razzle."

But, you don't have to take our word for it. A fellow named Webster defined it before Mr. Morgan or we—of the critical fraternity—were born. This Webster has it that "razzle-dazzle" is a "bemuzzle," or if you must have the verb, it is to "confound and confuse."

And Morgan is an impersonification of this definition. More, he is the Raffles of the "de luxe" stage. Every gesture, every gag of his is a slap in the face for Old Man Originality.

35 Junior Clubs in District

A survey of junior clubs in this district just finished by the district chairman, Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, of New Kensington, shows that there are 35 junior clubs with a membership of 723. The survey was made by Mrs. Steim through the presidents of the clubs and at the request of the State Federation chairman, Mrs. Maurice Snyder of Philadelphia.

The southwestern district, by the way, is to be signally honored in that one of its members, Miss Margaret McKown of Bridgeville, has been asked to speak from the convention platform when the State Federation convenes in Scranton in October. Miss McKown spoke last spring at the district junior conference and her subject for the Scranton convention will be the same as for the conference, "Organization in Junior Clubs."

The Tuesday morning convention program will be given over to the juniors and their reports and speeches and they will also have their own breakfast and their own dinner during the week. At the latter, Mrs. W. Riley Aiken's dialogue, which was written for herself and her daughter at the time of the spring conference here, will be given by two juniors.

Three new junior clubs have just been added in this district, the Carnegie Woman's Club Juniors, with a membership of 15; the Evans City Juniors, with a membership of 50, and the most recently organized group, Bradford Woods, with 14 members.

"Scissors, Brains and Pictures" is the intriguing title for the talk which Miss Marion Commings, art librarian at Carnegie Institute, will give Tuesday at 1:30 during the Congress of Clubs radio period over KDKA. This is another in the series of talks on "Hobbies" arranged for its radio audiences by the Congress.

PARIS FAVORS SMART BLACK COATS FOR AUTUMN WEAR

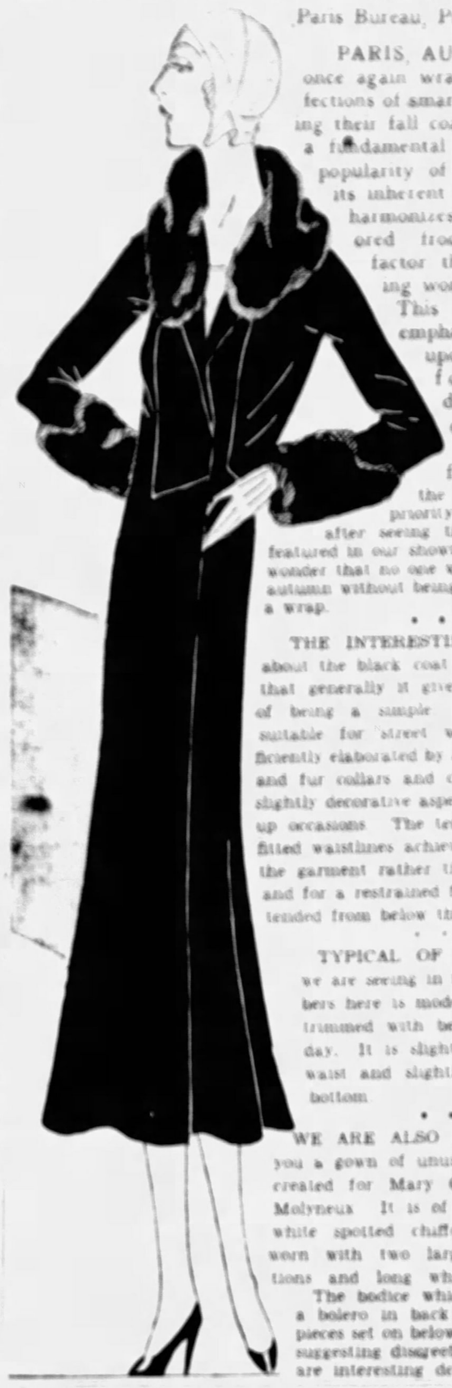
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.



PARIS, AUG. 22.—The black coat once again wrapped itself into the affections of smart women who are ordering their fall coats. Of course, there is a fundamental reason for the recurrent popularity of the black coat beset on its inherent chic and the fact that it harmonizes with various colored frocks, a practical factor that discriminating women recognize.

This season the emphasis placed upon black for the daytime costume gives further reason for the black coat's place of priority in the mode. And after seeing those that are being featured in our showings here we cannot wonder that no one will care to meet the autumn without being provided with such a wrap.

THE INTERESTING FEATURE about the black coat of this season is that generally it gives the appearance of being a simple tailored garment suitable for street wear, yet is sufficiently elaborated by self emplacements and fur collars and cuffs to give it a slightly decorative aspect for more dress up occasions. The tendency is toward fitted waistlines achieved by the cut of the garment rather than belted effects and for a restrained flare gradually extended from below the knee.

WE ARE ALSO SHOWING you a gown of unusual charm created for Mary Garden by Molyneux. It is of black and white spotted chiffon and is worn with two large carnations and long white gloves.

The bodice which forms a bolero in back and the pieces set on below the hips suggesting discreet peplums are interesting details.

Miss Nancy Hume James Engaged to Marry Oneonta, N. Y., Man

Outstanding in the varied news of the final days of summer, including the return of many society folks, last minute visits to resorts, and plans for the coming winter season here at home are announcements of engagements, the harvest of Cupid's labors during the romantic summertime.

One late August engagement will end in a mid-September wedding. And the engagement I just heard about this morning: The Frederick C. Bairds of Fifth avenue, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Nancy Hume James, to Earl Phillips Elmore of Oneonta, N. Y.

Travel plans still predominate in news of the doings of society folks, and will until after Labor Day, when folks will start coming back home.

Travel Notes

The David I. McCahills and their twin daughters, Marguerite and Marie, left this morning, did you know, by motor for Culver, Ind., where their 16-year-old son, David I. McCahill, Jr., will be graduated Wednesday as a lieutenant from the Culver Summer School.

Accompanying the McCahills is Mr. McCahill's father, Matthew McCahill, and his nurse, Miss Hanna Cosgriff, both of Des Moines, who've been visiting the Pittsburgh McCahills.

After the commencement exercises, the Des Moines travelers will leave the party to return to their home.

Mrs. G. Mertens, of Potsdam, has been the guest of Mrs. Charles Chubb, of Sewickley, and has been honor guest at many informal entertainments recently.

Honor Guest

Louise Evans, daughter of the Henry Oliver Evanses, who has been abroad the greater part of the summer, is now in England. She'll probably not return to the States until late September.

Mary Blair Holmes, daughter of the Joseph H. Holmses, of Devonshire street, who is abroad with Lucille Scott, daughter of the Joseph T. Scotts, of New Orleans, is now in Paris, and will sail for home the first day of September.

Did you know that the Christian I. Shannors are home from a fortnight in the Berkshires?

And that Mrs. William B. Schiller and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Morgan B. Schiller, will sail today for Paris on the Olympic? They'll attend the Passion Play and visit Vienna.

There'll be an early fall wedding in Greensburg that will attract many Pittsburgh society folks. Hetty Barclay Jamison, daughter of the John M. Jamisons, of East Gate, Greensburg, has named September 10 as the date for her marriage to Paul Ewer, son of the William P. Ewers, of Jeannette. The wedding will take place in Christ Episcopal Church, of Greensburg, followed by a reception in the Jamison home.

Wedding Date

Every fall comes an event of interest to flower lovers, the annual flower show of the Sewickley Horticulture Society and Garden Club. The show, the tenth annual event, will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 25, 26 and 27, in the Guild Hall, Broad street, Sewickley.

On the publicity committee for the event are Miss Dorothy Slack and Mrs. Alfred G. Harlow.

Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, her daughters, Nancy and Isabelle, and her son, George Reese Patterson, are at the Ocean House, Watch Hill, for the remainder of the season. And Mrs. Patterson has as her guest, Mrs. Julia Vroman, of New York.

Resort News

Another recent arrival in Watch Hill is Dr. W. J. Holland. Mrs. Holland has been at the Rhode Island resort all summer.

Dinner hosts during the past few days at Watch Hill have included the Harry Darlingtons and the Richard Beatty Mellons.

Mrs. William R. Thompson entertained recently with a dinner and musicale in honor of Dr. William J. Holland's birthday.

On Friday afternoon, August 29, the third annual horse show of the Watch Hill Riding and Polo Club will be held. And, of course, all the Pittsburgh colony will attend the event.

Mrs. William S. Moorhead has been elected treasurer of the Watch Hill Improvement Society.

Miss Evelyn Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Evans, of Fleming avenue, North Side, has chosen September 15 for her marriage to John D. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, of Trimble street, North Side. The ceremony will be performed in the bride's home at 7:45 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. S. J. Glass, pastor emeritus of the McClure Avenue Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Cameron D. Reed, pastor of the church. Miss Katherine Miller, as maid of honor; Miss Jean Vickerman, as bridesmaid, and Marjorie Wallace, as flower girl, will be Miss Evans' attendants. The bridal party will be completed by the best man, James Mercer, and the usher, Robert Leighton. Mrs. Fanny E. Baird, the bride's sister, will play the wedding music.

Wedding Plans

After an eastern motor trip and a boat trip from Philadelphia to Boston, the bridal couple will be at home in Fleming avenue.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Caplan, of Chesterfield road, Oakland, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anne Marilyn Caplan, to Harold Hoechstetter, son of Hugo Hoechstetter, of the North Side, which took place Sunday, August 17, in the study of the Rodef Shalom Temple with Rabbi B. Benedict Glaser officiating.

ADMIRAL BYRD'S TALK AT AIR RACE BANQUET FEATURES RADIO SCHEDULE

The Loudspeaker

Jazz Craze Ebbs.
Sports Broadcasts.
Radio on Trains.
Riches in Melody.

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The epidemic of jazz baby songs seems to have been definitely halted, but baby voice singers continue to crowd to the microphones with their boop-boop-de-doops.

Louis Reid.

Just as Blanche Ring once caused "Y i p-I-addy-I-ay" to sweep across the republic, Helen Kane is responsible for the boop-boop-de-doop craze that has penetrated the cross-roads of the country.

Of all the classical composers who have been tossed into the jazz hopper, Chaminade and MacDowell have come off with greatest glory.

Though I have listened carefully, I am unable to detect the superiority of the Marine Band over the bands of the Army and Navy.

I have yet to hear a college band that would set me to throwing my gray derby over the goal posts.

Our Sports Broadcasts Superior to England's

It does not matter to me how many times announcers confuse the names of sports contestants, so long as they continue to convey the excitement of the contest. We would rather hear even one minute of synthetic excitement than an hour of colorless accuracy.

In the matter of sports broadcasts we are far ahead of England chiefly because we do not neglect the thrills of the event. American eardrums attuned to the recent Derby at Epsom Downs actually heard a commentator—the term "announcer" is not known in England, declare—

"I can't give you anything exciting."

Those who ride on the so-called crack trains of the country may now hear the latest jazz as they gaze at contented cows and discontented farmers.

Formerly those who wanted jazz had to listen to agricultural reports or a soprano in the throes of the "Bird Songs" from "Pagliacci," unless they reached the dials first. It made for disturbance and distress. The road even came in for hard and heavy knocks. Now the trains are installing radios in every compartment.

The public be pleased!

Suggestion to the tunesmiths: Why not a song called "I Wish I'd Raised My Boy to Be a Crooner?"

Old songs no longer accumulate dust. The restless fingers of the broadcasters have reached them. Most restless of all fingers, the broadcasters'. None of the old songs, they say, has been overlooked, though I have yet to hear those choice banalities of the Carrie Nation era: "Standing in the Old Bread Line" and "Since I Took the Keeley Cure."

Of all the Broadway showmen who have been enticed to the microphones, George M. Cohan and William A. Brady have exhibited the most vital personalities. Wonder why they are not heard oftener?

Radio Has Brought Riches To Melody Men

Song publishers are said to include the radio rajahs in their nightly prayers. They should. Radio has meant new riches to them. An ever-golden stream.

Ten or twelve weeks is the average length of radio life for a popular song. But in that time how the money rolls into the bags of the music men! All they ask are radio, a crooner and the rhythmic beat of the old bass drum.

The song publishers will tell you that their only difficulty is determining where the lightning of popularity is next to strike. One month it hits the vague pleasure of singing in the rain. Another month it descends upon the type of love known as vagabond. Yesterday it sounded a bibulous tribute to dear old Maine. Tomorrow it may be a new lyric to baby.

Were we to retire tomorrow for a life of research along Tin Pan alley we would set out to discover how many of the dance tunes of today have their origin in old German hymns.

Of all the prize-fighters who have been brought to the microphones, Mr. James J. Tunney holds the record for the longest speech. It was:

"Greetings to all my friends in Greenwich, Conn." Others have been concerned with filial solicitude, as, for instance, Schmeling with his "Hello, Mommer;" Stribling with his "Hello, Ma," and Singer with the strangely sedate, "Hello, Mother."

Sousa, Though Past 70, Still Turns Out Marches

Two new Sousa marches have penetrated the loudspeakers—Sousa turns out marches as Ford turns out cars—one dedicated to the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, the other a tribute to the Salvation Army. Both have a characteristic swing, but they lack the gusto, the stirring appeal of "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "Semper Fidelis." They say the old band leader—he is now past 70—composes best when a flag or a regiment of Marines is before him.

Run up the flag, broadcasters, and summon him to the firing line!

The joys of Paris continue to be a popular theme on the radio, but the joys of New York are still unhonored and unsung.

Rear Admiral Richard Byrd's talk at the National Air Race banquet in Chicago will be a 10:30 feature of KDKA tonight.

A bizarre contrast in the 9 o'clock program on KDKA brings us a revival of the comedy song, "Where Do Ya Worka, John?" and Saint-Saens' morbid "Danse Macabre."

QUESTION A DAY.

Harriet Brown, North Side.—What is the large lake for at the new KDKA station near Butler?

A.—The lake is landscaped in a way to be ornamental, but you have correctly surmised that it has a more useful purpose. This lake will supply water to cool the transmitting tubes, some of which are five feet high and heat very rapidly.

Talking about barn dances, we get real pleasure occasionally by listening to the North Carolina Rail Splitters on KQV.

They're real country folk. How do we know? They're always first budding you the time of day—a little courtesy that the hard grind of city life takes away from most of us unfortunately.

Marcella Deverson, the pretty "Aunt Sammy" of WJAS, is paradin', Geneva on the Lake in a pink bathing suit these days.

When Glenn Riggs, Claude Morris, Bud Cooper and the other bachelor boys at local stations go to New York they have something to look forward to. Thirteen of the 15 hostesses at NBC are unmarried. And are they pretty? Don't ask!

A telegraph operator recently pulled a good one without knowing it. He addressed a wire to the "Sponsor of Secret Songs, KDKA," obviously mistaking the word "Sacred" for "Secret." Either way it's correct, for sacred songs would be almost a secret on the radio were it not for this lovely Pittsburgh woman.

SUNDAY'S DINNER
Jellied Tomato Bouillon
Baked Beef Tongue
Mixed Vegetables
French Fried Onions
Cucumber Salad
French Dressing
Huckleberry Pie
Iced Coffee or Tea

It is an especially good idea to bake a fresh beef tongue for the Sunday dinner and to use the left-over meat on the following day. Tongue can be prepared in so many appetizing and novel ways that it completely obliterates the accusation of being a left-over.

For example: serve the baked tongue with a variety of vegetables on Sunday. Then the next day serve cold sliced tongue with potato salad and relishes, chilled in aspic or sliced and heated in tomato sauce.

The initial preparation is this: Boil a beef tongue until tender and remove the skin. Cube a carrot and an onion, adding other vegetables as preferred. With a vegetable cutter, cut the potatoes in balls. Chop 2 stalks celery and 2 tablespoons parsley.

Now place the tongue in a roasting pan with all the vegetable surrounding it. Season with salt, pepper and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour over this some of the water in which the tongue was cooked. Dot with butter and bake in a closely covered pan for two hours.

When serving, place the vegetables around the tongue, adding cooked peas. Then pour the gravy, thickened with a little flour over all.

I've had a number of requests for a quick method of preparing jellied tomato bouillon, which is rapidly assuming a place of honor on the summer menu. Well, then, soften 2 tablespoons gelatine in ½ cup cold water, and add it to 1 quart of clear tomato soup, which is boiling hot.

Chill it thoroughly and serve in bouillon cups, garnished with chopped parsley. Some prefer a garnish of whipped cream, but that is a matter of individual preference. The most important consideration is that the bouillon must be ice cold.

Perhaps you incline to chow-chow; I know it is one of the loves of my early childhood!

Chop 1 gallon of cabbage, 2 quarts of green tomatoes, a pint of onions and ¼ cup green peppers. Mix thoroughly. Add 1½ pounds sugar, a tablespoon of mustard, a tablespoon of ginger, 2 tablespoons cloves, 2 tablespoons salt and 3 tablespoons cinnamon spices—all ground. Then add 3 quarts apple vinegar. Boil till tender, seal in glass jars while hot.

FRESH PINEAPPLE DELIGHT—Remove the peel and membrane from 2 oranges and cut in sections. Cut each section in half. Then cut 6 slices fresh pineapple in small pieces. Combine the fruits with 1 pint of berries. Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped mint and sugar to taste. Mix lightly and serve thoroughly chilled. Garnish with whole berries.

Fruit Valuable to Young and Old Alike

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City; U. S. Senator from New York.

Babies Need the Juices, Adults Eat the Whole Thing—And All Reap Benefits and Palatable Foods.

Do you use fruits in your daily diet? What a wide choice we have this time of the year, with the great variety of delicious and appetizing fruits on the market. Apples, melons, peaches, pears, grapes, plums, are here and citrus fruits are soon to come.

All the fresh fruits contain certain fruit acids and vitamins. They carry more or less fibrous material which is stimulating and cleansing to the intestinal tract. These splendid fruits, grown in the sun's rays, have absorbed and imprisoned the life-giving properties of light. We cannot eat too many or too much of them.

It makes no difference about the age of the human being—the fruits and fruit juices are good for health. Babies need the juice of oranges and of tomatoes. The growing and energy producing elements are hidden in them.

Some folks may very well use these fresh fruits stewed rather than eating them raw. Those who have weakened digestion may find that the seeds of fruits are irritating, especially berry seeds.

VEGETABLES VALUABLE

Of course, everyone needs the "green stuffs," the leafy vegetables just as much as the fresh fruits. They, too, contain the essence of sunshine. Their broad leaves, exposed to the sun's rays, bring all that is best in food for man's well-being.

When made the basis of salads, the fresh fruits may be used separately or together. Served with a dressing made of olive oil and lemon juice, they add immensely to your body's store of vigor and health.

As people grow older, they need to eat of fruits in abundance. The powers of elimination require more stimulation. In fruits are found the laxative properties which promote it.

The citrus fruits are of great importance in the diet. Their chief value lies in their antiscorbutic properties. All are especially rich in vitamin C.

AID TO HEALTH

The base-forming properties of the fruits are unique. Their acids do not increase the acids of the body, as the popular notion has been in the past. The reverse is true.

Bananas should be fully ripe before eating. Their peel should show the brown or black discoloration which comes just before the fruit is over-ripe. Cooked bananas are delicious. They are excellent baked by themselves, or they may be baked in the same dish with a roast of meat of some sort.

If you will make a habit of eating fruits, to the exclusion of many of the starchy foods, you will find better health and a growing sense of well-being. They are valuable for those who have general debility and anemia. Nothing is better than ripe fruits, and everyone should include them in the diet.

GASOLINE SALE VOLUME GAINS IN DISTRICT

Trade Unaffected by Lull In Other Lines, Official Tells Company Gathering

Business conditions have had no effect on the gasoline market in Western Pennsylvania, for in spite of the so-called depression sales of motor gasoline have increased 15 per cent during the first seven months of 1930.

That was the message A. W. Sullivan, Vacuum Oil Company official of New York and in charge of Mobilgas sales in Pennsylvania, gave to 1,000 dealers and employes at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel last night. The banquet was held as the final event of the introduction of the new gasoline into the Pittsburgh market.

A. W. Sullivan

F. L. Aiken, Jr., president and general manager of the company, presided and acted as toastmaster. He lauded progress made by the company and outlined plans for conducting business in the Pittsburgh district. Aiken is former president of the Aiken Oil Company, a members of the board of directors of the Citizens National Bank and president of the South Hills Kiwanis Club.

F. L. Aiken

It was announced that the Lighthouse Oil Company, Inc., Pittsburgh distributors for the Vacuum Oil products, is the result of a merger of five local companies—the Apfel & Fuel, Inc., Aiken Oil Company, Bishoff Station, Daw Oil and Gas Company and Lighthouse Service Stations. This company was formed to handle the various products of the Vacuum Oil Company in Allegheny County. The management of the company has been divided among the various officials of the former companies.

F. G. Bishoff, of Braddock, a member of the board of Braddock Trust Company, is chairman of the board.

The New Mode is Charming

Pattern 2007

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

Either the sleeve or collar proclaims your frock "new" . . . in today's model both are decidedly new, and intensely lovely. The wide collar is softly draped and strapped at the neckline while the sleeve widens in distinctive manner above the well fitted cuff. A narrow front skirt panel formed by cleverly attached flare, is slenderizing as well as chic.

Pattern 2007 makes up beautifully in canton or flat crepe, dull satin, chiffon velvet, marocain, shantung, georgette or wool crepe. The flattering collar may be made of silk crepe, pique, organdy or batiste in white, ecru or castor. Lace too, would be charming and more dressy.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16, requires 4⅜ yards of 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard of trimming.

Sour Stomach

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Touring Europe at the present time is one of Pittsburgh's most interesting citizens. He will not, however, enter Russia for two reasons: He is persona non grata with the Soviet government and Russia to him represents tragedy. His name is Andre Avinoff and he is the director of our Carnegie Museum.

Fifteen years ago Avinoff, member of an old distinguished family, was a gentleman in waiting to the czar of Russia, and the emperor smiled on him.

A lawyer, secretary of Russia's Senate (comparable to our Supreme Court), a master of a half-dozen languages, a notable artist, scientist, pianist as well as a man of intelligence, he was perhaps the rising young diplomat of his country.

But war and Bolshevism upset the social order and Avinoff, stranded in America, was forced to make a living out of his hobby, which was butterflies. The rich colors of the butterfly had so impressed the Russian that, as a boy, he had yearned to paint them. And, self-taught, he did.

In America he was able to attach himself to Carnegie Museum in a comparatively unimportant post. In less than 10 years he has become the museum's director.

Avinoff is in his middle life, good natured and tolerant. His passion for the study of butterflies remains strong. "Some people think . . . is insanity," he explains in good grace, "but if I like it, what does it matter?"

When Julius Levin, the sports writer, was detained at the office a few days ago, he telephoned Mrs. Levin that he would be later than usual for dinner.

were not particularly excited by this. The bills were made on a plate, four at a time, and it was possible to produce 16,000 in one working day. Thus, if the bills all were of $5,000 denomination, which they probably weren't, one man might make, so to speak, $800,000, although you had better multiply the figures yourself because we are poor in arithmetic. It is quite a bouquet to the honesty of the employes and the vigilance of the employers to say that none of the bills was ever missing. The Republic, incidentally, is extremely careful in employing men. Besides United States money, the Republic has engraved bills for Cuba and other smaller countries. There are only a few other such plants in the world.

ORDER CALLS FOR BUT 75 THIS FALL

Remainder of 1,000 Devices Must be Delivered to County by Next July 1

Officials of the Poole Engineering Company executed the contract for voting machines yesterday afternoon in the county commissioners' office, County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock signed the contract and it was then turned over to Commissioner Charles C. McGovern.

The contract calls for the delivery of not less than 70, nor more than 75, voting machines on or before October 1, 1930. The remainder of the 1,000 machines are to be delivered not later than July 1, 1931.

Although S. Proctor Brady, president of the Poole Company, told the commissioners at the hearing on the voting machines last week that his company can deliver 300 machines by October 15, the contract specifies but 70 by October 1, and not more than 75.

The contract does not specify the name of the machine to be furnished and there is no mention of the printing device with which the American Voting Machine, which the Poole Engineering Company is manufacturing, is equipped.

The Poole Company has posted $100,000 bond to guarantee performance of its contract.

Well, Is This A Rabbit or A Cat?

The cat-rabbit that was found in Frick Woods, providing a rare freak of nature. Miss Fassinger, biologist from Carnegie Museum, is trying to unravel the mystery of "Waddles."

FREAK ANIMAL FOUND HERE

Nature presented to the world, via Frick Woods, one of its rare mysteries and it's called "Waddles." Whether it is a kitten that looks like a rabbit, or a rabbit that looks like a cat is the problem today.

Waddles, so called by its owner, Charles F. Obaker, 1323 Milton avenue, Regent Square, is playful like a kitten. It looks like one, sometimes, often it looks more like a rabbit.

The animal was found in Frick Woods, a park of native forest between Homewood and Swissvale. Attaches of the park saw the creature hobbling through the underbrush, and supposed it was injured. They found that it wasn't, but that it had rabbit legs, hopped like a bunny and represents one of nature's strange freaks.

The kitten isn't wild, but domestic. It spends its days playing with a poodle dog of its own age, or chasing threads, spools, balls or other appurtenances common to kittens. It doesn't run, however, but hops. Its rabbit characteristics are the upright ears, the hopping locomotion, the long back legs, the sitting posture. Half the day it sits on its haunches.

Nature played a strange trick on Waddles so far as its tail is concerned. It has neither the cat nor the rabbit appendage, but resembles more that of the rat, and is unusually long.

ACTION SEEN WITHIN 2 WEEKS

Armstrong Calls Sessions For Partisans to Speak; Recommendations Studied

Within a week probably, and at the outside two weeks, the county commissioners will have decided where the $6,000,000 town hall is to be situated.

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong has called a meeting of the county commissioners Tuesday morning to start hearing the exponents of sites for the auditorium. He sent notices to Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Charles C. McGovern yesterday afternoon that the hearings will continue until a decision is reached.

ARMSTRONG DETERMINED

Armstrong said last night:

"It may take a week or two to get through with it, but we are going to pick the place for the town hall. It is the last project on the $43,000,000 bond issue program.

"There are a lot of men out of work. When President Hoover sent out his call to public officials to estimate what work was contemplated for this year we included the town hall in the projects we expected to get started. When this last item on the bond issue is under way, everything that we started out to do will be under construction."

WILL CHOOSE CAREFULLY

Every proposed site will be given careful scrutiny by the commissioners, Armstrong said, and they will not base their selection on the recommendation of the County Planning Commission, which in December eliminated all but the Nicola site, in Schenley Farms.

After an exhaustive study of sites to find one which could be purchased for a price which would fit into the $6,000,000 total authorized for the hall, the commission found that the Nicola tract was the only available vacant property that answered that qualification.

PROTEST STIRRED

The finding aroused a storm of protest from advocates of a downtown or North Side site, Lincoln C. Dickey, former manager of the Cleveland auditorium, brought here by the Chamber of Commerce Town Hall Committee a year ago, also recommended the Nicola site.

More than 25 were submitted to the planning commission. Before making their final selection members narrowed the possible locations to five: entrance to Schenley Park, Nicola site, the Point, including the site of the old exposition buildings, Monument Hill, and the north end of the Ninth street bridge.

Advocates of every site where there is a possibility of erecting the building complete with the land cost included within the bond issue limit will be heard by the commissioners. Soon after the final selection, construction will begin.

Will Rogers Says:

TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Aug. 22.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

We are up here at this beautiful lake near Reno, Nev., working on a picture, and today a fellow came up and wanted me to help get him into some soft job in the movies. I asked him what he was doing, and he said he was "house detective in the big hotel in Reno where all the divorcees live."

I said, "Brother, you must be hard to please. John Barrymore is not doing as well as you. Why, you got a better job than Coolidge writing a gag a day. Go back to work, and don't even envy Hoover. But if you are going to give the job up, consult me. I'll change with you."

Yours, WILL.

Police Aid Evicted Family, Destitute on Hillside

The family of Joseph Williams, 37, consisting of his wife and five children, who made their home under a tree on the slope of Monument Hill since Monday, when they were evicted from their home in Sheffield street, were being cared for in the North Side Police Station today while the police were making efforts to find the destitute father a job and a home for the family.

The plight of the Williams family was brought to police attention last night. At the station, Williams, his wife, Agnes, 36, and their children, Eugene, 12; Curtis, 11; Betty, 10; Ray, 8, and Fred, 4, had their first real meal in weeks, they said.

Out of work since July 2, the father tramped the streets for days. When their eviction came, the family had nothing more than the clothes they were wearing.

Among themselves, the police raised a collection — $30 — and their chief concern today was to find the father a job.

OFFERS CHANCE TO PITTSBURGH INDUSTRY

Government Attache Tells Need of Devices Abroad Due to Lack of Manpower

F. W. Allport, commercial attache of the United States government in Paris, yesterday told the foreign trade council of the Chamber of Commerce that lack of man-power in French industry is necessitating importation of labor-saving machinery from the United States. He urged Pittsburgh manufacturers to take cognizance of this valuable market.

Analyzing the trade difficulties encountered in France and other European nations by American exporters, Allport attributed it to misunderstanding of the American foreign commercial policy on the continent.

The misapprehension of this nation's tariff on foreign goods, the World War debt payments, and the regarding of the United States as an imperial power, are all factors in the resentment toward America insofar as commercial relations are concerned, he declared.

Camera Question Box

Today's question—Do you consider Aimee Semple McPherson's continued quarrels with her mother consistent with her religious efforts?

MISS OLIVE M. DUNCAN, clerk, Baldwin Township—No. I don't. If Aimee Semple McPherson can't do any better than she has done she ought to get out. As it is she only gets people disgusted with religion.

Miss Duncan

GEORGE CHARTENER, roll turner, Carrick—No. It isn't consistent to any religion. The doctrines of all religions are founded on love—not hatred or quarrels.

George Chartener

RALPH CHARTENER, shop-owner, Carrick—I don't think that any person who was really sincere about religion would quarrel or try to find settlement for an argument by that means.

Ralph Chartener

MISS JANE TAYLOR, clerk, Arlington Heights—Fighting goes against any religion, no matter whose it it. And to act in that manner isn't going to help her attempts to spread religion.

Miss Taylor

MISS ANNIE E. COOK, clerk, Baldwin Township—The things that Aimee Semple McPherson does are just to attract attention. She's one of those that like to be in the limelight all the time and will go to any extreme to get publicity.

Miss Cook

B. J. MUELLER, store manager, Mt. Oliver—No. It certainly is not consistent with what she professes to believe. She should see how such quarrels are going to hurt her standing with the people and go against any good she may do.

Intoxicated, He Declares, When He Took Machine Gun From Detectives' Car

Orville Mills, 27, in whose home, 506 McClintock avenue, police say they found their missing Thompson machine gun, told his story to Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today in Central Police Court.

Mills admitted possession of the loaded machine gun, and testified he removed it from the city detectives' car August 3 while he was intoxicated. He said he wrapped it in paper and took it to his home.

He also testified he intended to return the weapon when he realized the seriousness of the crime, but was afraid to do so.

Frank Ferris, of the homicide squad, who appeared against Mills, asked that the defendant be held for a further hearing pending a more complete investigation of Mills. The magistrate granted the lieutenant's request.

BALL CLOSES K. OF C. MEET

Supreme directors elected are William J. Tobin, New York; William J. Guste, Louisiana; Francis Fateaux, Canada; T. J. Heazel, North Carolina, and P. J. Carroll, Maine. The fifteenth anniversary of the order will be observed in Washington in 1932, when a memorial monument to Cardinal Gibbons will be presented to the nation by the Knights of Columbus.

The convention adopted a resolution offering the full assistance and support of the order to President Hoover in the emergency caused by the drought and crop failures in the farming regions.

Pennsylvania districts receiving special awards at the convention for substantial increase in membership, were District 14 and District 5. The Pittsburgh delegation included as delegates Leo A. Ivory and John P. Killeen, and as visitors the Rev. Bertin Donahoe, retreat master, St. Paul's Monastery, Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Cox, and son, Albert, Jr., of Bellevue, and Edward D. FATHER FILES WRIT FOR CHILD

Raymond R. Marshall, of Detroit, through counsel today asked the Court of Common Pleas here for the custody of his 13-year-old daughter, Cleo Rose, who has lived with her grandfather since she was 10 days old.

Habeas corpus proceedings which Marshall instituted today were continued until September 9, at which time the child is expected to be produced in court. Marshall's wife died at the child's birth.

He asked the grandfather, George Preisendorfer, of 1113 Buente street, South Side, for her, he said, after the grandmother died two years ago. At that time Judge Elder W. Marshall ruled that Cleo should remain with her grandparent.

When Marshall came to Pittsburgh several days ago, Preisendorfer told him the child was visiting relatives.

STUNTING WINS GIRL PILOT JOB

Helen Richey, pretty McKeesport miss and Greater Pittsburgh's first licensed girl pilot, who couldn't get a job, has stunted her way to fame and fortune.

After passing her pilot test, Miss Richey solicited leading plane manufacturers for a job without success. They apparently had no use for a young lady who said she could "stunt."

The young daughter of McKeesport's school superintendent made another bid for success last Sunday, however, when she attended the dedication of Johnsonburg's new airport.

With a borrowed Curtiss Fledgling, Miss Richey stole the show from a half-dozen planes flying in varied formations over the field and thrilled thousands of spectators with tail-spinning, looping and other maneuvers women are not expected to try.

Among the thousands who cheered the young lady upon her landing was L. R. Byler, of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, who further expressed his appreciation for her daring by offering her a job.

Mrs. Dexter Tells Raquel She Is After Divorce

CHAPTER XXXIII.

When she felt she could do so without being observed, Raquel took account of Mrs. Dexter.

She could not understand, just at first, how Alphonse had discovered in Mrs. Dexter the essentials of a great beauty. How he could find, in this small, bird-like woman with the unhappy eyes, any beauty at all.

Her hair was mouse-colored and had that look of having been done up without recourse to a mirror. If Mrs. Dexter used cosmetics at all they must have been the wrong kind, because there was a peculiar disassociation about her features as if they did not fit but had been thrown together carelessly without regard to crevices.

She wore a dress of some dark material with lace at the throat. It might have done very nicely for her mother or even for her grandmother provided these excellent ladies were sufficiently old-fashioned.

"She looks hopeless," Raquel said to Alphonse.

"Wait. She will turn her head."

Just as that moment Mrs. Dexter did turn her head. Then Raquel understood. Her profile had the symmetry, the sculptured purity of a cameo wrought by an exquisite in art. That dainty sensitive chin. The nose feminine yet with strength in its fineness.

Seeks Divorce

"You see," Alphonse had all the enthusiasm of the connoisseur who discovers a fine painting in an old attic.

"Yes," Raquel said. "How can she be such a—"

"Vandal! Exactly. Many women are like her. They do not take the thought to make the acquaintance of beauty. They destroy that which is God-given by their selfishness, their indifference."

"But what has changed her? Why now does she want to look her best?"

"I know (earlier). Ask me," Greta appealed to Alphonse.

"S-sh!" he warned. "This is Mademoiselle Raquel's problem."

After dinner they walked to the lounge. Greta was off to "work on my new prospect," she whispered to Raquel. Raquel and Alphonse were having their coffee when Mrs. Dexter joined them. She was shy, Raquel decided, and troubled. It was difficult for her to fix her mind on the polite nothings that follow a purposeful meeting.

"I'll leave you ladies alone," Alphonse said after a few moments. Then to Mrs. Dexter: "You may have complete confidence in Mademoiselle Raquel. You will find her sympatique and resourceful."

There was silence. Mrs. Dexter was trying to force herself to speak. Confidences of the kind she must give did not come easy to her.

"Alphonse has told you nothing," she asked, setting her mouth to the bit and plunging.

"No." Raquel's embarrassment matched that of the woman. This would not do. She must overcome it.

"I scarcely know where to begin," said Mrs. Dexter. "With the most important thing, I suppose. I am going to Paris to get a divorce."

Her unhappy eyes sought Raquel's. As if they begged this stranger to deny that astounding assertion. To exclaim: "Oh no, you must not do that!"

Loves Her Husband

"I'm sorry," Raquel responded. "That is if—"

"No no. I do not want it—a divorce. It is the last thing I ever dreamed of. I love my husband."

The unhappy eyes filled with tears. The sensitive chin quivered.

"Then why do you do it?" Raquel asked gently.

"There is no other way. He has brought such pressure to bear—I must. He will not come home to the States. He stays in Europe. Dissipating horribly. Killing himself. He will kill himself if I do not free him. He is half dead now, a wreck of himself. Yet he goes on—and on."

Tears were gone now. Burned up by the fires of the woman's emotions.

Raquel hesitated.

There is—she mustered courage to ask—a woman?"

Yes. The woman's hand shook so that she could not lift her coffee. "She calls herself a woman."

"They are—in love? Your husband and this—woman?"

The look of a tigress with its cub crept into Mrs. Dexter's unhappy eyes.

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know whether it is love or hate that holds them together. They are like—like—animals. They hurt each other. They seem to take pleasure in it. Quarrels in public. She calls him vile names. He has—he has even—struck her."

The woman might have been seeing some grisly spectacle, so wide were her eyes, so stark her horror.

"Why—surely—why does he not leave her?" Raquel said.

"I don't know. That is what I must find out. I have begged him. Our friends, our families have implored him. I have offered to forgive—to forget—to shut it all in the past, close the door, bolt it, as if this nightmare had never been. He will not listen."

"I don't know—you have some plan—you want to get him back?"

"I must get him back. I must have him. He has two sons. They love him. I love him. I LOVE him."

"There must be a way. There was a way," Raquel thought. But could it be found, even by loving feet that would hazard any danger, scale any mountain, to find it?"

Raquel Sees Remedy

"The woman is very beautiful," said Mrs. Dexter. "She is like a serpent, sinuous and—fascinating. My husband is an intense admirer of beauty. It is like a drug to him."

"Then you—why didn't you—"

"Why didn't I offer him beauty?" The woman caught the question. It was an accusation. "Because I was a fool. A spoiled little simpleton. I thought I was safe. I had him. He was mine. He belonged to me and to our children. He was patient, affectionate, seemingly contented—until he met her. At least I thought it was that way. Now I know he accepted me because he couldn't help himself. I was in his life, and he couldn't get me out—decently. Then she came and he didn't care. Not for decency for me, for his boys—nothing. He pushed us aside as easily as he would—old shoes."

At any moment, Raquel felt, this woman with the chattering teeth with the misery in her eyes would collapse. She must do something, offer some stimulant, or it would surely happen.

"I don't think it will be necessary for you to get a divorce, Mrs. Dexter," she said firmly.

"You don't? You think that even now he might—"

"I think there's a chance. A very good chance. If you will do as Monsieur Alphonse says."

"I'll do anything—give every cent I have to Alphonse—to you."

"It is not a question of the money you will give Mrs. Dexter. It is how much of yourself you will give."

"I gave everything. It was not enough."

"Everything perhaps, except the one thing your husband wanted most—beauty! You forget that," Raquel said coldly.

I cannot help smiling whenever I think of two persistently philanthropic persons I know of.

Mr. and Mrs. Blank have oodles of coin and the greatest enthusiasm for discovering and developing talent.

Mr. Blank is always meeting up with some wonderfully giftey girl, who is so sadly in need of voice culture, and Mrs. Blank dotes on paint and painters and has discovered no end of very talented young men who should study in Paris.

But, strange to say, Mrs. Blank takes not one whit of interest in the progress of the pretty blonde creature in which Mr. Blank sees such a great future—on the operatic stage. And Mr. Blank takes even less interest in the "geniuses" Mrs. Blank brings home, or takes abroad!

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Harry Takes Unusual Precautions in Guarding Auto.

I was thankful for my war secret service training as Harry Underwood gave me the muttered direction to "pipe the driver of that black coupe," adding that he would tell me why later. I knew from his excessive caution that he was anxious no hint of his admonition should reach the ears of his wife, already at high nervous tension over the possible race with death which we were making to Robert Savarin's home in the Catskill Mountains, and I remained immobile as I listened to his instruction.

I pretended to stumble as I reached the ground and catching his arm gave him an old-time signal that I had caught his warning. The next instant he had gone to the other side to help Lillian down. Mary had jumped lightly to the ground almost before the car had stopped, and I was thankful that she was beside me, rummaging in the tonneau for her bag because her action screened me in the furtive scrutiny I was giving the man Mr. Underwood had pointed out.

He was a man heavily built, with brown hair streaked with gray showing beneath his cloth cap. An ulster, heavy but distinctly not new covered him, but as he alighted from the car, a look at his shoes, with a quick summing up of his way of standing, and his method of using his eyes in looking at his surroundings clicked him at once into a certain compartment of my mental file. "Private detective" was written all over him, and I knew what Harry Underwood wished of me. He did not need my confirmation of what his own keen perceptions and experience must have recognized at once, but he did wish me to impress upon my memory which he is pleased to call "uncanny," every detail of the appearance of both the man and the car he was driving.

With a fussy pretense of rearranging the lunch box, which we had not as yet touched, I kept Mary with me as a smoke screen while I stenciled the man's photograph upon my memory. Harry had taken Lillian directly to the door of the hotel and by the time I had completed my mental cataloguing of the man opposite, Purnell, suave and smiling as ever, appeared from the door of the hotel.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Graham, and Miss Harrison," he said with the bow which only Purnell can achieve. "It surely is a great pleasure to see you back again. But Mr. Underwood says you are only to be here a few minutes. He told me to lock the car and keep an eye on it, and asked if you two ladies would not come directly upstairs to his suite."

"We will be there directly," I said. "I don't think we'll need our bags, do you, Mary?"

Dicky's niece closed the lock of her bag decisively.

"Nary a need," she said, with a grin. "I've fished out a couple of extra hankies, and I'm ready to face the world. Come along, Auntie Madge."

I lingered only for a low-toned word with Purnell.

"Please don't take your eyes from the car," I adjured him. "Mr. Underwood has some reason for thinking someone may try to meddle with it."

"Yes'm, that's what he said," Purnell replied, "and the manager said I wasn't to stir from here till Mr. Underwood came out."

"Then we need feel no anxiety," I told him, and the man grinned widely as I turned and walked swiftly toward the door of the hotel with Mary close beside me.

We found Lillian sitting in an armchair by the window, with one wary eye upon her big husband as he dashed in and out of her bedroom door, evidently trying to pack a bag for her. I took my cue from an appealing glance she sent me and, crossing to Mr. Underwood, took a silver hairbrush and silk lounging robe from his hands.

"Let me pack Lil's things, Harry, and you attend to something else."

"Nothing else to attend to except to stir up service downstairs. I ordered hot tea and crackers sent up as we came in and—"

"As it has been all of three minutes since you entered, they of course ought to have been here with the tea two and one-half minutes ago," I told him laughingly.

"If as you say, you have nothing else to do, suppose you go downstairs and find out what's delaying things."

"I'll do that little thing," he answered with a meaning look at me, and I knew that he was grateful to me for playing up so that he could get downstairs to the car and observe the detective at whom he had asked me to look.

Lillian sprang to her feet as soon as he was gone.

"Come into my room a minute, Madge," she said breathlessly, and I realized that some unusual need lay behind the summons. "You'll excuse us, Mary?"

"Of course." Dicky's niece had flung herself full length upon a couch. "I've but a single thought, to stretch while the stretching's good. And I hope we start soon. I'm wild to get at that lunch of Katie's."

"We won't be five minutes," Lillian promised, and yet when she had closed the door of her room upon us she stood lost in thought for fully half of one of them.

"There's something I'd like to do—for—Robert—" she said irresolutely, "but I don't know that I ought."

Household Hints

Never romp with baby just before putting him to bed or directly following feedings.

If a small hole appears in the fine chiffon stockings, take time and mend it when you remove your stockings. Then it will not develop into a large hole during the washing process and the hosiery will last longer.

Saving the pieces is not such a good idea when it means accumulating a vast assortment of soiled utensils, forks and sticky spoons while preparing a meal. Fill a large pan with water and as each article is used drop it into the vessel.

Nervous women are more likely to suffer from excessive perspiration than the more placid gels who take life calmly. Fussbudgets are benefited by exercise out of doors, restful sleep and less intensive living. They need more nourishing food than individuals who belong to slow-moving traffic.

A callous spot on the outer side of the big toe is caused by the seam that unites the shoe-proper and the sole, especially when the shoe is too narrow. Treatment consists of soaking the foot in a warm soapy bath and rubbing the hardened cuticle with a pumice stone. This method is better than cutting with the knife.

Oily hair will sometimes reform if the shampoo medium is changed, and the strands moistened now and then with eau de cologne and frictioned with a towel. An eventful and stirring day is the forecast made from the very interesting mutual and lunar aspects. A change is imminent of far-reaching effect, bringing change of environment as well as a re-arrangement of the personal and business activities. Purely personal matters may assume unusual unconventional of spectacular angles, but the general trend of events is considered propitious.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of unforeseen change or travel, which may affect the life and its status and environment radically. Social, domestic, affectional as well as business relations are involved in this important adventure, which may assume spectacular angles. There may be slight delays, possibly owing to a minor physical accident or disturbance.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

If You Want to Keep Your Husband's Friendship Be His "Smiles," and Not His Nagger.

Feeling all Hot 'n' Bothered 'n' fulla gloom about this Modern World? Sure that marriage is going flooey and civilization's on the skids? Then tune in on Alice and cheer up! Her broadcast is good for what ails you.

Alice is married. And happy! And why is she happy? Because she married the Perfect Husband? No Lady. That's not the reason. Alice is happy because she didn't expect marriage to be a ready-made Heaven. She realized that if it was to be a Going Concern, she'd have to do her part to make it so. So she took an inventory, and dumped a lot of her own personal peeves and prejudices overboard, and set herself to meet her man half-way.

And how did it work? Here's how!

"Dear Sally:

"I've just gotten so tired of reading the complaints of the peeved wives who write you letters about their terrible husbands that I just have to write and tell you a story of the pleasant side of marriage.

"Most of these women who write to you are such darned spoiled babies! They think that their selfish whims are o. k. but when their husbands have a whim! Oh my! They make the husband's half of the so-called 50-50 marriage soar up to 90.

But what makes me so mad is that they go around doing a lot of yapping and howling that makes young people look on marriage as a dangerous experiment. And if they hear of anyone who is making a go of marriage, they say "it's hard to believe," and act like even if it's true, it's only one case out of a million. But then, I suppose if everybody remembered that maxim, "Life is what you make it," your column would have to go out of business.

GREETED WITH SCOWLS

"My goodness! When the poor henpecked husband of one of these women comes home a minute late for dinner, he trembles as that terrible scowl greets him, and friend wife demands: 'Well, where were you?'

"I wish a few of them would try the way I do. Of course, dinner may be terribly spoiled from waiting for my husband, too, on one of the rare occasions when he is late, and though that does make me feel bad, I don't act like he'd committed a crime. I greet him with a kiss, a smile and a cheery 'Hello, sweetheart!' and wait until he tells me what's kept him.

"Sometimes his excuse is that he met an old friend of his, and forgot about hurrying home, or perhaps some other excuse. . . But do I glare at him and lecture him? I do not. I say, 'Well that's all right, honey. I know you wouldn't stay till so late on purpose.'

"He says that's one reason the times he does stay away are so far apart. He says he can't wait usually to get home, so he can see his 'Smiler' waiting for him. Sometimes some friend will say 'How would you like to trade wives with me?' in a joking way, and he'll answer 'Not for all the money and. 'tives in the world. All our friends know this, and call me 'priceless.'

"If he comes home tired, I usually call off any engagement we may have if I can. I value the friendship of my husband more than I do that of some friend who might be put out by that. He in turn, does my housework if I'm ill. And many is the time he has made and served my supper. Lots of people said I was spoiling him. But now they call us the Love Birds.

NOT A DOORMAT

"I'm full of pep and I'm no doormat, but I don't believe in expecting too much of a man! And I realized when I got married, that it was just as much up to me to make a marriage pleasant as it was up to him. Has it worked? And how! I am a happy wife.

"If some of these dizzy dames who expect to indulge all of their whims and none of their husbands' would try the same, they might be surprised. Here's hoping they do it. What do you think of my idea?"

"ALICE."

What do I think of it?

I'm with you a million kid! If every bride and groom lived up to your recipe the divorce courts would die of starvation.

And I'll bet my new fall hat that about 987,865 husbands who read about that plan of yours will rise right up and bust into loud cheers!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Wedding at the Clergyman's Home

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married at a Reverend's home and I would like to know if it is proper to write on the invitations inviting the people to see the ceremony or just to invite them to the reception? Miss A. D.

Since the space that the Reverend has in his home is necessarily rather limited, usually weddings of this kind have as their guests only the wedding party itself and the members of the immediate families. However, the best way to determine how many guests it would be convenient for the Reverend to accommodate at the ceremony, ask to make an appointment with him and talk over with him this question. Then augment or limit your list according to his recommendations. We must, in these cases of course, be very thoughtful and considerate so that we will make our plans adapt themselves to his wishes and accommodations.

When There Has Been a Divorce

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am about to be married and I want the sort of wedding that girls dream about and mothers describe to their children. My fiance is a divorced man, and, although this fact is not generally known to our mutual friends, he does not want a church wedding. I have always been under the impression that a large wedding is correct, except when the bride has been married previously. Will you let me have your views on this subject? D. N.

In some denominations a church wedding is not permissible under these circumstances, and your fiance may be of one of these denominations. The best way is to consult with the person who is to officiate at the marriage, and he will explain things to you.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Blue Monday a Useless Bugaboo.

Some time ago I wrote about "Blue Monday" and asked my readers to write and give their ideas on the subject. I received an astonishing amount of mail in consequence. Most of these letters follow the same general trend as to the cause. They speak about cramming so much fun, excitement, exercise, rich eating, etc., into the weekly half holiday and Sunday that Monday finds us suffering, not only from a tired body, but from a general feeling of mental "let-down," as well.

DR COPELAND

While the week-end's vacation may not be the best plan possible, we should have plenty of relaxation. Each one must decide for himself just what it is that gives him the renewed energy and spirit to carry on. If we can only satisfy or fulfill our desires, whether it be for excitement, sports, or any other form of recreation or enjoyment, over the week-end, this is much better than not being able to fulfill them at all.

Work and play are essential if you would keep your mind and body healthy. The state of mind has a great deal to do with our general well-being. We all know the depression which is born of long illness or suffering. We welcome the renewed interest and activity that materialize as soon as we are better. Our bodies respond in every way. The outlook becomes brighter and we gain in health and strength by leaps and bounds.

It is unnecessary to have a "Blue Monday," as many of my readers contend. Keeping busy and doing those things which we want to do, but which we find no time to do during the busy week, should not only make our week-end happy and satisfying but should also give us renewed courage to face the problems which appear every day. All work and no play is just as bad as all play and no work. The two are inseparable, to my way of thinking. Work hard and the playtime will be well earned and merited.

The busy housewife should plan her Sunday with a view to having a long afternoon of leisure to do with as she chooses. The business man or woman should plan to get out in the open, to play golf, tennis, go hiking or riding, and in this way gain a different viewpoint and a sense of rest and freedom from petty worries and anxieties.

If we are interested in our work and have enjoyed our hours of relaxation and freedom we should find new zest for the beginning of another week. We are ready for it and planning for the activities which are to come.

Try to make the holiday give you what you want and what you need, but do not overdo. If you follow this rule you will feel no different on Monday than you do on other days—indeed you will feel better. If we do our work each day and know that we have done it well then we can look forward to playing with added joy and satisfaction.

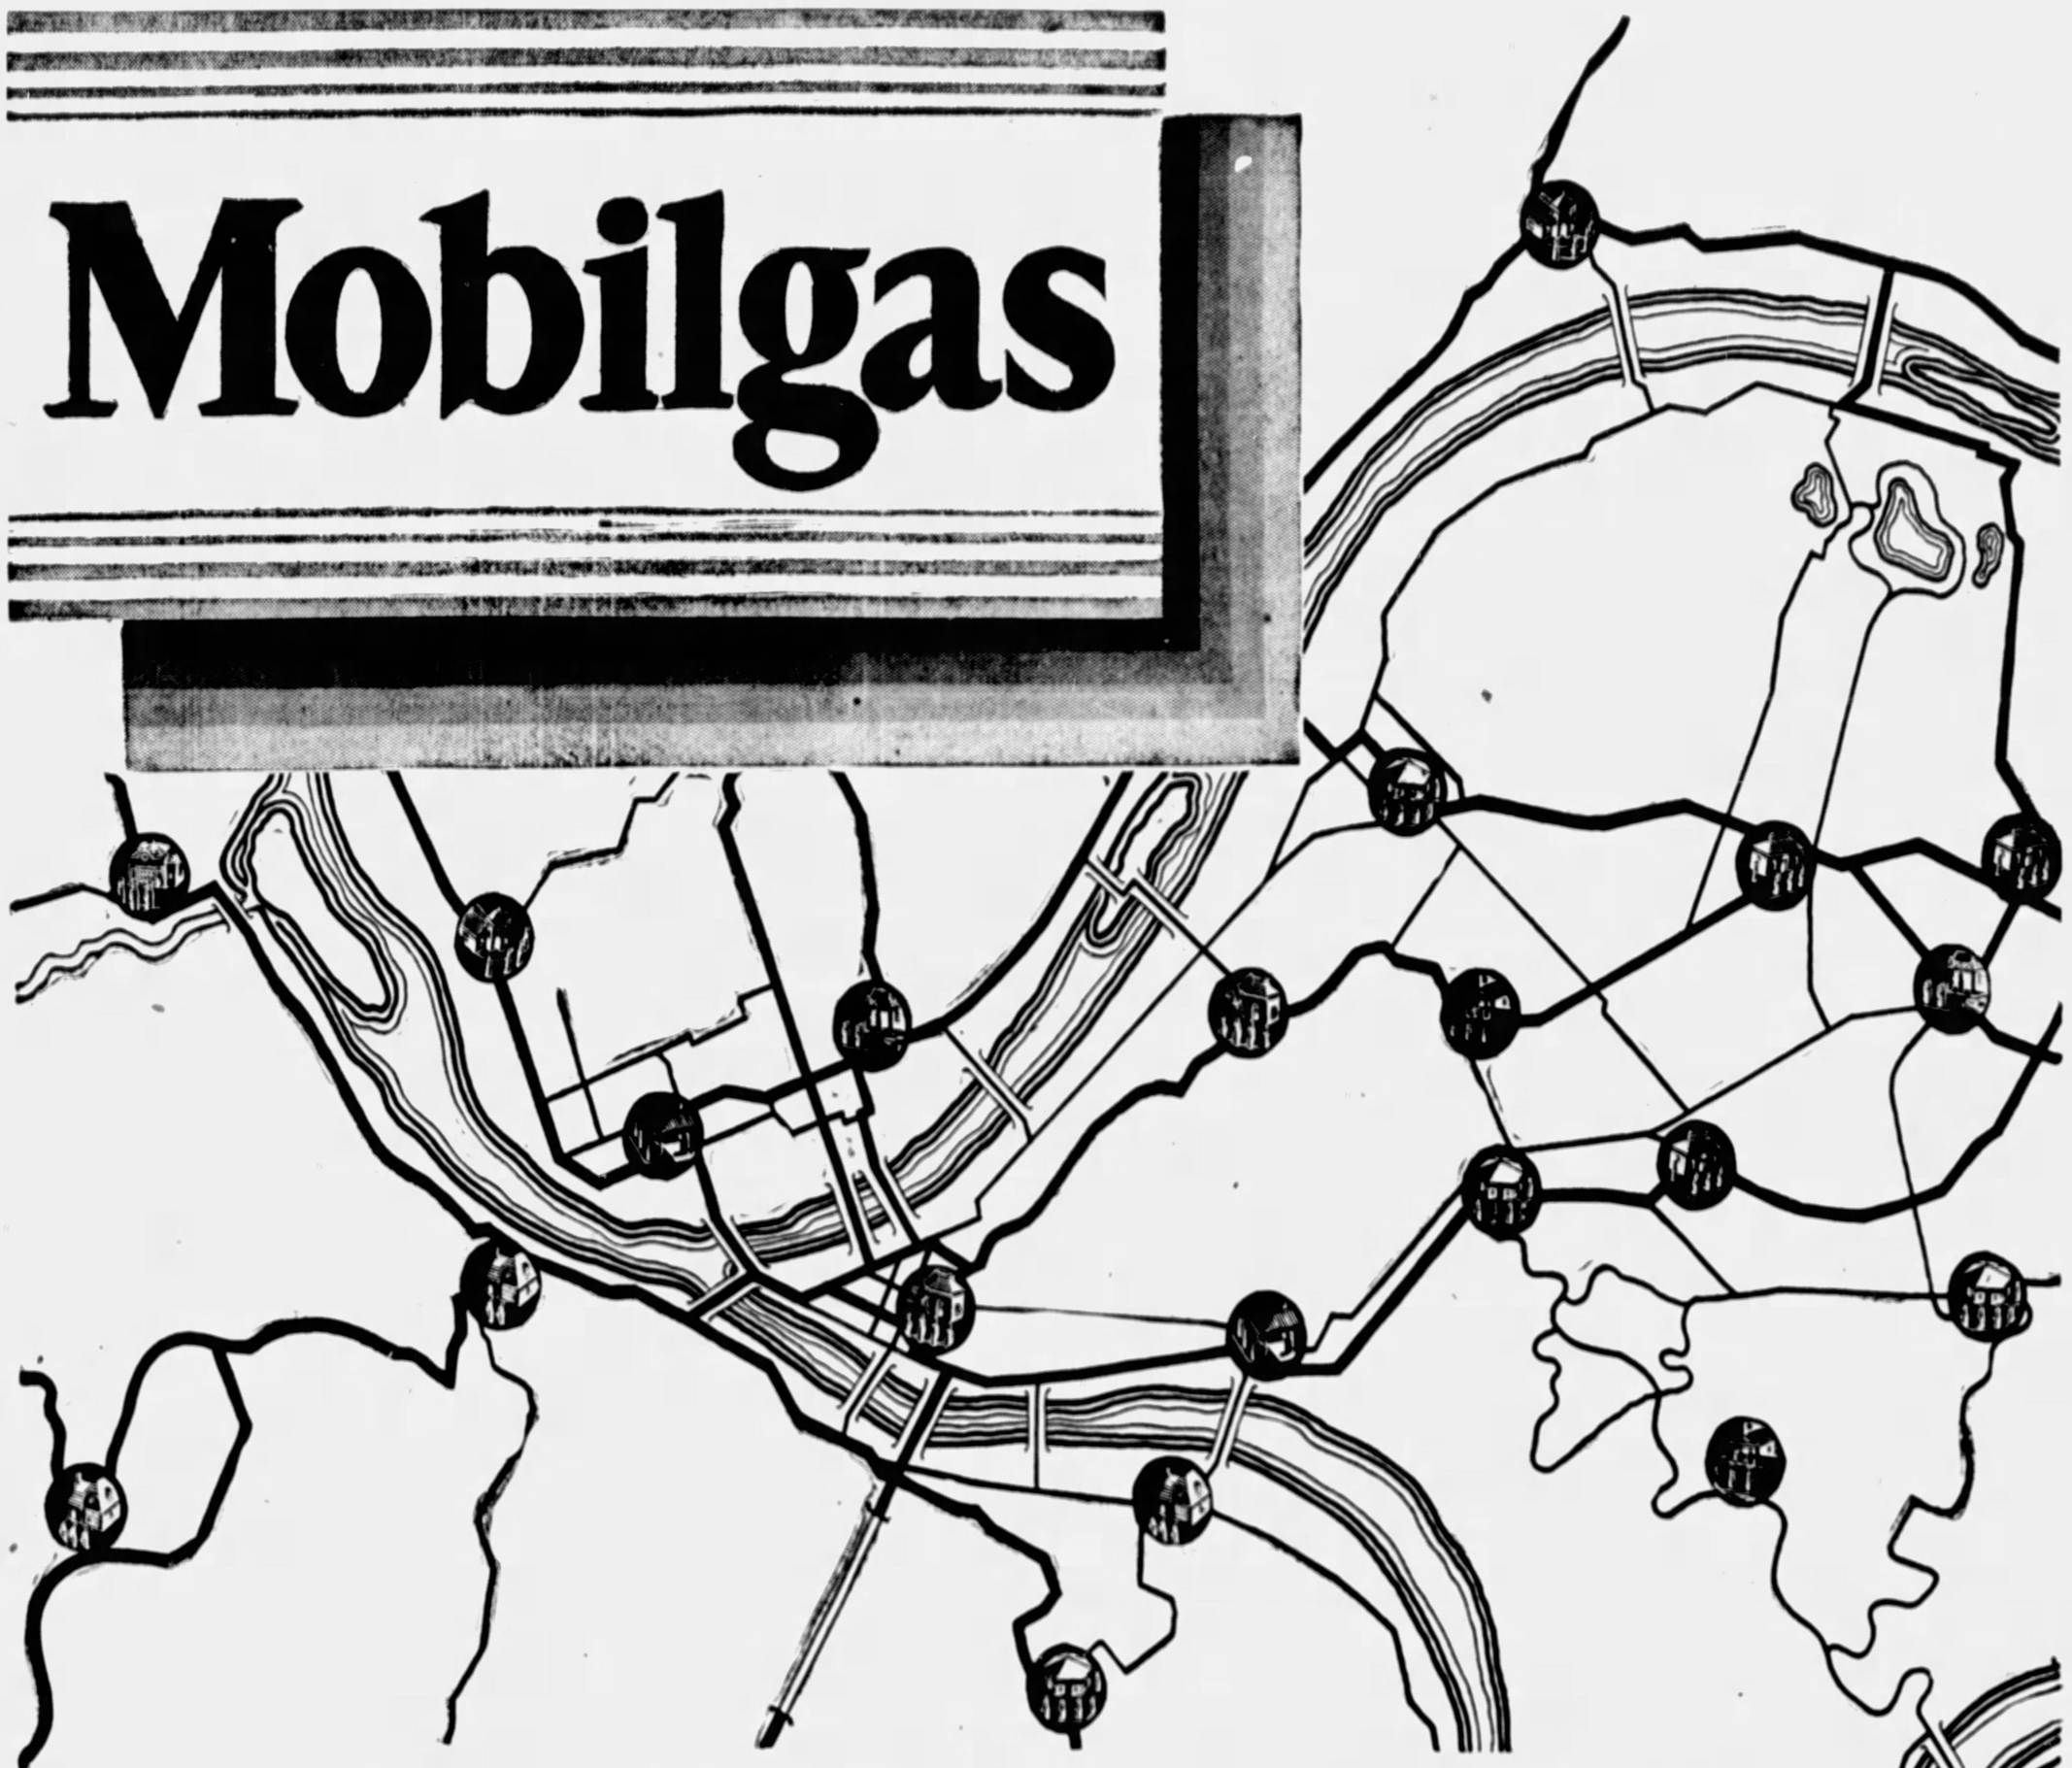
Mobilgas



THE NEWEST GASOLINE COMES TO PITTSBURGH

TODAY the motorists of Pittsburgh are invited to try a brand-new gasoline—a modernized gasoline—made to meet the changed fuel requirements of present-day automobiles.

First tried out in Pennsylvania under every kind of driving condition, Mobilgas, for the car you drive today, lived up to every requirement of modern motors. And now this fine quality gasoline comes to Pittsburgh and is available at prominent locations throughout the city.

This newest gasoline is by the makers of Mobiloil. It is modernized by Vacuum's process of distillation. It has behind it the Vacuum Oil Company—with its world-wide experience, covering more than half a century, in refining quality oil products.

In the past few years motors have changed. They are nimbler, speedier, more powerful, better on every count! These motors require a different gasoline. That is the reason for Mobilgas.

Anti-knock? Power? Purity? Economy? Mobilgas does all a gasoline should do—and a little more. Switch for a week, and let your car decide. It doesn't cost a penny more than regular gasoline.

BIG MEET HERE MAY MAKE HISTORY

IT'S IN A peak year that Pittsburgh gets the A. A. U.'s national championship track and field meet, which will make this city the center of attention in the athletic world until next Monday night. For since early spring it has been a season of surpassing performances, hardly any of the big meets failing to contribute something to a long list of records broken or approached. On both track and field the athletes have made 1930 an outstanding chapter in the history of amateur competition.

Steve Anderson

Even world records have not withstood the assault. Two have been smashed and two others have been equaled. The new marks were hung up by Frank Wykoff, University of Southern California, who became the present-day "fastest human" by sprinting 100 yards in 9.4 seconds, and Eric Krenz, Stanford, who threw the discus 167 feet, 5 3/8 inches. Steve Anderson, Washington, who competes here, equaled Earl Thomson's world record of 14.4 seconds for the 120 yard high hurdles, set in 1920, and George Simpson, Ohio State, duplicated the mark of 20.6 seconds which Roland Locke established in 1926 for the 220-yard dash.

AND THAT'S NOT mentioning a staggering number of close approaches to world of American records, one of particular interest to Pittsburghers having been turned in by Pete Bowen, Panther speed star, with a quarter-mile in 48 seconds. That has been the order of things all along the line. Runners, hurdlers, vaulters, jumpers, weight men and discus and javelin specialists have kept up a drive that continually threatened existing marks.

It all goes to show that for number of front-rank athletes, and for the class of the American field as a whole, 1930 has been an exceptional year in track. It means that Pittsburgh gets the big title meet at a time when form all around is highest, and with the greatest of the nation's stars gathered here to vie for championship crowns, the carnival of competition at the Stadium bids fair to be a history-maker.

A FORMER PIRATE who has quit baseball half a dozen times only to yield eventually to the lure of the game and return to it, is Bob Harmon, one-time pitcher. When the Bucs tried to send Harmon to Columbus, in 1917, he refused to go and retired. He consented to rejoin the Corsairs a year later, but in 1919 retired again.

Bob has been in and out of the game several times since in various capacities, and latest reports indicate that he is still coming and going. He was understood to have given up the game after umpiring for a while this year in the Three-I loop, but now comes the announcement that he is back again as an umpire in the Western League.

Bob Harmon

HARMON FIGURED IN the biggest trade, as measured by number of players involved, ever made by the Pittsburgh club. Fred Clarke and the late Miller Huggins then managing the Pirates and Cardinals respectively, put it over after the season of 1913, the Buccaneers here giving five players for three. Infielders Jack Miller, Cozy Dolan and Artie Butler, Outfielder Chief Wilson and Pitcher Hank Robinson were sent to St. Louis in exchange for Harmon, First Baseman Ed Konetchy and Third Baseman Mike Mowrey. Konetchy and Mowrey played only one year for the Rovers, and were in the Federal League in 1915. Harmon pitched three seasons as a Pirate before starting the series of "retirements" mentioned above.

MOST BASEBALL FOLLOWERS will decline to take any stock in the latest story in connection with the reported possibility that the Washington club plans to get rid of Art Shires. It is the yarn that Mike Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, has offered Shires $50,000 to give up baseball for a fistic career.

Malloy is generally believed to be too smart a business man to invite such a heavy financial loss as a proposal of that kind probably would mean. Shires drew crowds for a time last winter, not because he was a great fighter, but because it was a novelty to the fans to see a widely advertised ball player in the ring. On his Queensberry merits alone, Shires would not last long as a card. Without his baseball background he soon would lose his drawing power.

A SENSATIONAL RECORD as a college pitcher is no guarantee of success in the big leagues. The latest evidence to that effect is to be found in the case of Owen Carroll, former Holy Cross star, who went from the Tigers to the Yankees on Memorial Day, this year, in the Koenig-Hoyte-Rice-Wuestling trade.

The Yanks have just released Carroll to Toledo in the American Association, 15 other major league clubs having waived on him, and though he goes under option it is said the New York club does not include him in its plan for next year.

Owen Carroll

BEFORE JOINING THE Tigers in 1925, Carroll made a record for Holy Cross that stamped him the greatest college pitcher in the country, and when Detroit beat out a number of other big league clubs in bidding for his services it was thought to have landed a prize. In the majors, however, Owen has failed to live up to his college reputation. He won 21 games for Toronto when placed with that club for seasoning in 1926, but in the majors he has not been able to win even half of his games, his complete record showing only 38 victories against 42 defeats. He did not win a game this season, failed to go the distance in any event he started, and is charged with six reverses. Now he has been discarded by two major league clubs in the same year. There's a vast difference between fooling college batters and stopping the smart hitters in the big show.

THE POSTPONEMENT OF the game scheduled for yesterday in Cincinnati interrupted a record-breaking period of continuous action for the Brooklyn club. It gave the Robins their first day of rest since July 11.

Without an open date or a postponement breaking the string, they played every afternoon for 40 days. Seven double-headers were included, making a total of 47 games, of which the Flatbush outfit won only 24. Of their last 15 games they have lost all but three.

TRACK, FIELD KINGS VIE AT STADIUM

By JESS CARVER.

Backed by a campaign of phenomenal achievement, track and field stars of the nation begin competition today in the annual championships of the Amateur Athletic Union here in the Stadium. A brilliant entry, totaling close to 1,000 numerically and assaying 100 per cent in class and ability, promises sensational performances and torrid competition.

From all sections of the country individual stars of true blue caliber are assembled for the junior and senior titular tilting, with all but one or two of the 1929 champions, crowned a year ago at Denver, on hand to defend their laurels. The only missing first-place winners of last year are Phil Edwards, the lithe Negro half-miler, and husky Eric Krenz, victor in the discus throw.

JUNIOR MEET TODAY

Junior division hopefuls will dominate the program for today. Tomorrow, the senior titles will be decided and Monday will be given over to the gruelling contesting in the decathalon and the running of the relay championships.

During the course of the intercollegiate campaign recently completed, two world records went slithering by the boards and two more were equaled, and so ding-dongish was the contesting on all fronts that not a day, not a meet went by that did not see the standard times and measurements tremble.

Of course the outstanding accomplishments of the year were Frank Wykoff's 0.09.4 100 and Eric Krenz's sensational discus tossing. Unfortunately, neither of these young men are entered in the competition here. Wykoff has decided to quit running and Krenz found business duties too pressing to permit his leaving the coast.

BOWEN LOCAL HOPE

Versatile Pete Bowen, University of Pittsburgh flyer, dubbed by the famous and only Paavo Nurmi as being "the greatest track athlete in the game," will carry the hopes of this section in his favorite race, the 440-yard. Bowen holds the A. A. U. championships and the record, and in addition is the present intercollegiate champion. He will compete under the colors of the New York Athletic Club.

Other local athletes who are expected to shine with more or less brilliancy include Len Friedman, Geneva College javelin tosser; Henry Schnellbach, former Duquesne sprint star; Lee Merriman, hefty Beaver Falls weight star; Woody Adams, Pitt's Negro runner; Paul Thomas, Geneva sprinter, and Joe Pesci, Duquesne's miler.

The aerialists, the pole vaulters, give promise of affording the most sensational competition. Headed by defending champion and record holding Fred Sturdy, former Yale star, now competing for the Los Angeles A. C., A year ago, at Denver, for the first time in history, all the place winners in both the junior and senior events were over 13 feet. Tommy Warne, who has missed 14 feet on several occasions this year is just the chap to press the former Eli star to a new record, or vice versa.

STARS IN 100

Naturally enough, the 100-yard dash will furnish the piece de resistance of the carnival. Take a glance at the entry list for the senior crown—Champion Eddie Tolan, Michigan's Midnight Express; Hector Dyer, of Stanford (who beat Frank Wykoff in the 100 in the coast relays this year and EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BIRD WITH A BEARD—The Lammergeier (Giant Bearded Vulture), of Western Asia, is the largest of all birds of prey. With a length of about four feet and a wing spread of 10 feet, it easily can carry a chamois or a goat in flight. It also feeds on large tortoises, which it drops from great altitudes in order to break the shell. NO PERSON CAN OWN A CEMETERY LOT—Cemeteries have an exceptional legal status in line with the exigencies of public policy. Burial lots can not be seized for debt, nor can a mortgage be established on them. Mortuary laws preclude the ownership of a single lot. What is termed the ownership of a cemetery lot merely is an easement for the specific purpose of burying the human dead and for no other purpose whatsoever. TOMORROW—THE MAN WITH TWO HEARTS.

BRANCH RICKEY CONFERS WITH DREYFUSS

BY CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, reached Pittsburgh unannounced today and a short time later he was in conference with President Barney Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates regarding a future deal involving the two clubs.

Before meeting with the Pittsburgh officials, Rickey admitted to the Sun-Telegraph that he was here on the mission stated, but he threw cold water over the general report that Sunny Jim Bottomly was "in bad" in St. Louis and probably would be traded.

WILL KEEP BOTTOMLEY

"We certainly do not want to trade Bottomley," said Rickey, "Personally, I consider Sunny Jim one of the most valuable men on our ball club, and he is a gentleman off the field, and that also counts. Moreover, Bottomley has been playing under the handicap of a badly battered thumb that took him out of the game.

"Jim would have been given a longer rest, but his understudy, Ernie Orsatti, hurt his leg, and then Bottomley went back to help out, although in poor condition.

"Bottomley is a young man who should play in the major leagues for 10 more years. He hits in more than 100 runs per year for us and he is always on the job. We consider him a great asset to the team and would not swap him unless something of an unusual nature developed."

Rickey also will talk with Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, while he is in Pittsburgh. Apparently he is seeking one or two of the Pirate stars in return for what he has to offer, but he said he did not wish to go into detail in this connection.

CINCY NEXT

The Pirates will head for Cincinnati after the dual fight of tomorrow. They will take on the Reds Sunday and Monday in Cincy and will then move to Chicago for a couple of battles with the Cubs.

The Ensmen are scheduled to clash with the Bears no less than seven times in the next three weeks, or before the Buccos depart on the last Eastern invasion.

Larry French and Dick Bartell, Pirate stars, will receive gifts from the De Molays of Western Pennsylvania at Forbes Field between games tomorrow afternoon. Dick will get a portable radio while Larry is slated to receive a wrist watch. Both Pirates are members of the De Molay in their home towns.

Mrs. Curry Annexes Schenley Golf Title

Mrs. Margaret Curry, city women's champion, dethroned Mrs. Eva Blair as champion of the Women's Schenley Park Golf Club today when she won 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final of the club's annual title event. Mrs. Curry stood 1 up at the finish of the first 18 holes of the final test yesterday, but had to shoot fine golf on the in nine to protect her advantage today. The cards:

COMISH APPROVES BOUT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—(INS.)—Approval today had been granted by the Cleveland Boxing Commission for the Young Jack Thompson-Tommy Freeman battle for the mid-welterweight crown at League Park here September 5. Sale of tickets for the title will begin Monday, promoters of the event said today.

LINARES DIES

HAVANA, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Cuban sportsmen today mourned the death of Abel Linares, 58, promoter of international sports events, Linares died at his home yesterday afternoon of pneumonia.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Maybe they've been chiseled out of the pennant, but the Brooklyn Robins are in a good position to go after the tree-sitting championship. They've been out on a limb for 10 days. The St. Louis Browns are now the acrobats of baseball. They have been playing all season in the St. Louis ball park and nobody has seen them yet. That St. Louis park would make a swell place for Robinson Crusoe and Friday to set up housekeeping whenever the Browns are scheduled to play.

I understand the fans turn out a little better for the Cards, provided they get in free.

BETTY NUTHALL FAVORED

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—The girls who are attempting to keep the national women's tennis championship in America found themselves strictly on the defensive today.

The foreign stars, Betty Nuthall, of England, and Baroness Georgio Giacomo Levi, of Italy, shared the semi-final round brackets with the last two surviving Americans, Mrs. Anna Harper, of Los Angeles, and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., and, judged on their play in the previous rounds, held an excellent chance of success.

The 19-year-old English star has yet to lose a set, a record approached by none of the other three. In the four matches in which she has engaged Bouncing Betty has dropped a total of only eight games for an average of two per match. On the basis of these facts, she was a clear-cut favorite today to defeat Miss Morrill in their semi-final encounter.

The other semi-final, involving Mrs. Harper and Baroness Levi, amounted to a toss-up. The black-haired baroness, who was once Maude Rosenbaum, of Chicago, attained the semi-finals here through sheer speed and aggressiveness.

At the net she beat young Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Cal., on Wednesday, and at the net she overcame Penelope Anderson, Richmond (Va.) stylist, yesterday.

Mrs. Harper, the fifth ranking player in the United States, was forced to three sets before overcoming Mary Greef, of Kansas City, in the quarter-finals.

JIM CROOKSTON IS MEDALIST

GREENSBURG, Aug. 22.—Old Man Par again was called upon yesterday to defend his city as a score or more county amateur shotmakers sent their little white spheres scurrying over the beautiful Greensburg Country Club course, marking the opening of the annual Westmoreland County amateur golf tournament.

Jimmy Crookston, of Stanton Heights and Greensburg medalist, is leading the field with a par 71. The first pair to tee off this morning were S. M. Jamison and B. McCutcheon, both of Greensburg. Jamison went around in 87 and his partner in 91.

(Other scores were: Myron Lampmouse, Latrobe, 85; P. Mahady, Latrobe, 87; Tom Underwood, Latrobe, 79; Jim Underwood, Latrobe, 82; C. E. Laughrey, Hannastown, 95; Dick Smith, Hannastown, 88; L. CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Display, W. J. Salmon's crack 7-year-old, who has won $256,000 in purses during his career, has been definitely retired.

Trainer Jack Pryce yesterday received orders from Salmon to make no further effort to train the thoroughbred, following recent performances. As a 3-year-old, Display won the Preakness, and two years ago scored a triumph in the Hawthorne Gold Cup.

SHAMROCK V. AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the America's Cup, reached the scene of the international classic last evening in tow of the Erin, the doughty Irish Knight's private yacht, on which he was aboard.

Yankee and Enterprise each won its second straight race in the official trials for selection of the defender of the America's Cup and each broke the previous record for a 30-mile triangular course, Yankee by the widest margin.

Yankee, sailed by Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the Navy went around the course in 2 hours 47 minutes, 59 seconds.

Local Netmen Reach Finale

LOCAL NETTERS OUT OF PUBLIC PARKS PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Ill fortune stalked the trail of Pittsburgh's title aspirants yesterday in doubles play in the eighth annual National public parks tennis championships on the Reservoir Courts in Rock Creek Park here. With the tourney far advanced toward completion, Steel City representation is nil. Frank Broida, driving, little Harvard southpaw, who copped the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph public parks men's singles crown a month ago, was first to fall, he and his rangy partner, Pat Deck, of Leesburg, Va., going down before Bob Elliott and Elmer Rudy, Baltimore City premiers, in a stiff second round brush, 6-2, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

MRS. ARTZBERGER BOWS

A few minutes later the knell sounded for Mrs. Jean Artzlberger, Pittsburgh municipal woman champ, who teamed with the consistent Washingtonian, Mrs. Ruth Martinez, to attain the women's doubles semi-finals, only to succumb after three torrid sets to the St. Louis combine, Virginia Dueker and Ann Lindemann, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Meanwhile in the men's singles, two seeded luminaries were dropping by the wayside in quarter-final competition. In another renewal of the classic rivalry between Notre Dame and the University of Southern California, Bud Markey, former South Bend racquet ace, took Jack De Lara, U. S. C. portside luminary, bearing the standard of Los Angeles, for a 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1 ride.

CONSIDINE BEATEN

Just a little earlier in an all-Washington affair, Dooley Mitchell, Georgetown slasher, had emerged from the rear to down versatile Bob Considine, George Washington U. star, and District of Columbia and Western Maryland titleholder, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

A third and very interesting round-of-eight contest saw Champion George Jennings, of Chicago, volley out a hard-fought 11-9, 6-2, 7-5 decision over Ted Drewes, St. Louis slasher. Arnold Simons, Louisville dark horse, completed the quota to pass into the semi-finals at the expense of Alex Keiles, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Fourth round—George Jennings, Jr., Chicago, defeated Ted Drewes, St. Louis, 11-9, 6-2, 7-5; Arnold Simons, Louisville, defeated Alex Keiles, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2; Thomas D. Markey, Indianapolis, defeated Jack De Lara, Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1; Dooley Mitchell, Washington, defeated Bob Considine, Washington, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

'BIG SHOTS' IN NATIONAL A. A. U. TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT STADIUM

PETE BOWEN

HAROLD OSBORNE

HARLOW ROTHERT

A football giant who gladdened the heart of Pop Warner, football coach at Stanford, with his gridiron feats, is representing the Olympic Club, of San Francisco, in the shot put. Rothert is well known to both grid and track fans.

EARL (DUTCH) CLARK

The only footballer who was able to give Howard Harpster, of Carnegie Tech, a fight for the All-America quarterback berth two years ago was Dutch Clark, of the Colorado Aggies. Dutch is now doing his stuff for the Denver A. C., and is doing it with a hammer.

ran him a dead heat in the 220 in a dual meet); Russell Sweet, captain of the Olympic Club squad; George Simpson, the Ohio State Comet; Cy Leland, of Texas Christian; Claude Bracey, of Rice Institute; Henry Cummings, of the Newark A. C., and—all these and others of dark horse variety.

The meet will get underway promptly each day at 1:45 p. m. A. A. U. officials here are sanguine of the attendance, for Pittsburgh is not famous as a track and field supporting town. The advance sale has ben slight, but the local sponsors of the affair are counting on a good crowd for the seniors tomorrow.

They'll need it, as the "nut" for the affair is better than five grand.

WATSON LEADS IN OPEN

ORION, Mich., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Johnny Watson, of South Bend, Ind., a rank outsider even among the group of dark horses, took an early lead at the half-way mark of the 72-hole fight for the Western Open golf championship today with a 145 total, one over par for the distance.

The Hoosier professional shot a 73 in the opening round yesterday and came back with a par 72 today to jump into the lead. His round today was somewhat erratic, however, as he scored five birdies and went one stroke over par on as many holes. His card:

Par out	5	4	3	4	3	4	4	4	4	—35
Watson out	5	3	3	4	4	5	5	4	5	—38
Par in	4	4	5	3	4	5	4	3	5	—37—72
Watson in	5	4	4	3	4	4	4	3	6	—37—72

Two Detroit stars, Charles Kocsis and Clarence Gamber, trailed him closely. Kocsis added a par, breaking 71 to his 76 of yesterday for a 147 total, while Gamber, runner-up in the first round with a 70, slumped to take a 78 today for a 148 on the 36 holes.

The scores:

John Watson, South Bend, Ind.	73	72	—145
C. W. Gamber, Detroit	70	78	—148
Ben Weichman, Ashland, Ky.	76	75	—150
J. Passeno, Orrville, Mich.	78	73	—151
James Zeller, Detroit	76	75	—151
Oscar Wittwell, Aurora, Ind.	77	81	—158
Don Hamilton, Chicago	79	79	—158
Chick Hughes, Chicago	81	79	—160
Dudy Pilgrim, West Dover, O.	81	79	—160
Ed Hertel, Troy, O.	82	78	—160

SOCCER LOOPS REORGANIZE

By TOM BIRKS.

Plenty of organization meetings are being held all over the district in the formation of soccer leagues for the coming campaign. The Pittsburgh Central League has shown the way for the other loops in the matter of getting away to an early start, and Frank Mincher, its president, together with Secretary Sam Parks, expect to have one of the finest circuits in the district. The third and final meeting of the organization is scheduled for Honus Wagner's on Monday evening, and all forfeits must be posted at that session. The rules have been mailed to the West Penn Football Association. The governing body will get together on Tuesday evening and much important business will come up.

The teams composing the Central are Union Switch and Signal, Clan Douglas, Pierpoint Motors, Sons of St. George, Wilkinsburg; Crafton Heights and Mesta Machine. The Pittsburgh Rovers and the Pittsburgh Celtics have promised to attend the Monday meeting, and the loop will possibly be closed with these entries.

The Chartiers Valley League will have a big meeting at the Bridgeville Owls on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time. Seventeen teams have promised to attend this session, and when it is over, two well-balanced loops will probably be in the field.

The American League is a matter of doubt. It was a decided flop last season, following the passing of the great Heidelberg club. The killing of the Green and Gold Machine was the worst blow ever given the game in this district, and the return of the famous national champions is a matter of doubt.

Nothing has been released from the Monongahela Valley section. Gallatin had a tough break in the amateur, but that will hardly kill the soccer spirit around that district.

Perfect Score Wins Preliminary Shoot

VALDALIA, O., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Nine hundred and one trapshooters took part in the preliminary handicap, the warm-up for the Grand American, here yesterday, and honors went to Jean A. Pope, of East Moline, Ill., who had a perfect run of 100 targets from the 22-yard line.

Science Ends Stomach Torture For Millions

New Formula To Banish Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Sourness, Gas and Resulting Nervousness and Sleeplessness

Burning acid stomach, pain after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness, and the resulting nervousness, sleeplessness, and colds won't trouble you if you use the new formula Acidine.

Read What These Users Say!

"I had trouble for four years with my stomach," says Mrs. B. C. Hill, 283 Harrisville Avenue, Ogden, Utah, "and had taken baking soda and many medicines but they would give me only momentary relief. I tried the sample of Acidine which you mailed me and it was so good that I bought a large can and after using half of it, haven't had a pain in my stomach since. Acidine sure is wonderful."

"Muriel never gives us a bit of trouble," says her mother, Mrs. Sarah Laeder of 3504 West Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill., "because I make sure that her little stomach is always sweet, so no sour food can hurt her. I give her a little Acidine, which tastes just like peppermint, at night. That takes away the acidity which comes when children eat too much cake and candy."

"I suffered for months with acid indigestion and gas on the stomach," writes Mr. C. Bedford of Detroit, Mich. "Couldn't eat a meal without being troubled with gas and pain, also dizzy feeling. I tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing really helped until I took Acidine. Got relief from the very start. Now I am entirely well, no pains at all. Have recommended Acidine to all my friends."

A Well Known Doctor Makes This Statement:

"I am convinced that Acidine is an antacid of first rank. For those who are troubled with gas on the stomach, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

Stop That Acid Stomach Now!

Don't run risk of getting dangerous troubles that often result from burning acid stomach, gnawing pains before or after eating, belching gas, bloating, heartburn and other stomach ills. New formula Acidine containing an effective starch digestant, Japtase, stops pain and gas and quickly soothes dangerous stomach irritation. Eat, drink, smoke. Take Acidine to relieve resulting acidity. Get Acidine from your druggist today—it is not expensive—and stop acid stomach torture and danger for good.

No formula for acidity surpasses Acidine. It's instantaneous action in cleaning up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress is more pleasing than you would believe possible. Acidine is safe, harmless, and pleasant for adults and children. Used by millions of people.

Absolute Money-Back Guarantee

Acidine costs you nothing if it fails for the Acidine people say to every druggist, "If any customer is displeased with the results obtained from Acidine, give them back their money immediately. We stand behind this product absolutely." Keep Acidine in your home always.

WOMEN GOLF STARS PLAY AT EDGEWOOD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Local golf interest today is centered upon the outcome of the one-day tournament for women being staged at the Edgewood Country Club. The field is one of the largest of the season in women's golf circles to play in an invitation event. More than 184 were listed to compete in the 18-hole handicap affair. Play got under way early this morning and will not let up until late this afternoon.

Betty Trimble and Ellsworth Giles, Jr., came through yesterday to top a field of 46 in a mixed foursome invitation tournament at the Shannopin Country Club. Their best ball was 86.

F. E. Jamieson scored a hole in 1 at Oakmont yesterday when he dropped his spoon shot in the 226-yard sixteenth hole unto the cup from the tee. He was playing with S. E. Hackett, Edward A. France and N. J. Clarke.

Eddie Kunold, superintendent of the club house at the Schenley Park municipal links for the last 20 years, will be honored on his anniversary today by a number of his friends at the golf club. They will present him with a watch. The ceremonies are slated to take place at 7:30 tonight.

WAGGONER KEEPS TITLE

AUSTRALIA WINS

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—The Australian cricket team today regained the "ashes" symbolic of cricket supremacy, defeating England by an inning and 39 runs in the final test match played at the Oval ground. The game was the last of a series of five test matches and began last Saturday with no time limit. Of the four previous tests England and Australia took one each and the other two were drawn.

OUTDOOR BOUTS FLYNN PLAN

Francis Flynn, downtown's only fight promoter, just refused to wait for winter to come before returning to his favorite sport, so he will now run open air shows at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., California and Superior avenues, North Side.

Flynn, who runs fistic entertainment each year at the Moose Temple, Penn avenue, plans to stage his first show next Friday night. The seating capacity of the new professional arena will be close to 3,000, according to Flynn.

And in case the weather is too cool for outdoor boxing, Flynn plans to move his show to the Moose.

THOMAS EASILY GETS VERDICT OVER DUNN

JACK RODGERS NEXT FOE FOR JOEY

By JAMES MILLER

Joey Thomas, veteran Chicago featherweight, will meet Jackie Rodgers, Negley knockout star, in the main bout at Hickey Park next Thursday night by virtue of his win over Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, at Millvale last night.

Thomas originally was matched with Rodgers for last night but an injured knee kept Jackie from going through with the fight.

Thomas, a frail-looking blond who appeared as though he couldn't throw a hard punch, showed a two-fisted attack and had Dunn on the run for most of the fight.

From the first until the fourth round Thomas had his left jab in Dunn's face continually beating him to the punch and then crossing a hard right hand blow to the head that carried plenty of steam.

The fifth and seventh rounds were the only ones won by Dunn. In these stanzas Johnny pummelled the Windy City fighter about the body with resounding short right-hand blows that forced Thomas to double up and hold on. In the seventh round the New Kensington standard-bearer caught Thomas on the jaw with an over-hand right that came close to dropping Joey.

The remaining rounds of the fracas went to Thomas, who fought with renewed strength and punch, using repeatedly a one-two blow that went into Dunn's body and head with knife-like rapidity.

DUNN HURT

The last round found Dunn bleeding from the mouth and sporting a badly discolored eye, while the only mark Thomas had to show was a reopening of an old cut over his right optic. Dunn made a good showing for a fighter who accepted the bout on three days' notice.

The rain that fell throughout the first bout soaked the ring to such an extent that the main bout principals had a hard time holding their feet. Thomas weighed in at 125 and Dunn two pounds heavier.

SEMI-FINAL STOPPED

The best bout on the card was the return fiasco between Al Becker, of Sheraden, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the eight-round semi-final, which was stopped in the last round by the boxing commission when Belmont floored Becker with a hard left hook to the chin. Becker rose at the count of two and was reeling around the ring with his hands at his side without defense or power to fight back. It was the best thing that could have happened for Becker, although he put up a great fight.

Becker was on the floor four times, twice he slipped and the other two times he went down under the blows from Belmont. In the fourth round Belmont found Becker's chin with a looping right-hand punch that sent the Sheraden fighter to the canvas for the count of nine and only sheer courage and plenty of grit kept Becker from staying there. Becker tipped the beam at 134 pounds and Belmont at 136.

BALINT VICTOR

Paul Balint, of the North Side, won the referee's decision over Sammy Paris, of the Hill, in the second six-round bout. Frank Ferris voted for a draw, with Lou Meinninger and Al Grayber rightfully picking Balint, who did all of the hard and clean punching.

Tommy Ward, of the South Side, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, in the third round of their scheduled six-round opening bout. A bad cut over his left eye caused by an uppercut was responsible for the commission doctor refusing to permit Brown to continue. Ward was entirely too clever for Brown.

Al Grayber and Eddie Kennedy were the referees with Lou Meininger and Frank Ferris as judges. Harry Klaas was the announcer, while Max Zeugschmidt and Steve Russell kept time. Dr. J. M. McMeans was the Commission physician.

SHOW CALLED OFF

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 22.—Rain washed out the open-air boxing show that was to have been held here last night, with K. O. Husk and Tiger Joe West as the principals in the 10-round main bout. The show was postponed for two weeks and will be staged on Thursday night, September 4.

BRITISH-AMERICAN GAMES

An analysis of the four-mile relay to be run by the British and American teams in Chicago, August 27, will tend to give the British team a slight edge over the best quartet that America can muster at this this time of the year. They will have Thomas, of England, with a mark for the mile of 4 minutes 15 2-5 seconds; Ellis, of England, who ran fifth at Amsterdam with a mark of 4 minutes 16 seconds; Walters, of Canada, who ran for Marquette last year with a mark of 4 minutes 18 seconds, and Whyte, of Australia, who has a mark of 4 minutes 18 seconds. There men all will be in superb shape, as the British are particularly anxious to win this their favorite event.

Knute Rockne

The 400-meter high hurdles race should go to America although the British team has a quartet led by Lord Burghley which is capable of averaging 14 4-5 seconds.

The field events all should go to America handily. The only stiff competition will come in the javelin. Ley, of New Zealand, has a mark of 222 feet, and Pilling, of Canada, has thrown the spear 212 feet.

The three-mile team race should be a walkaway for the empire. England has two great three-milers and, to top this, there is Hillhouse, of Australia, who defeated Savidan, of New Zealand, in Canada recently by about four yards. Hillhouse's winning time was 14 minutes 25 seconds, which is only 11 seconds behind the world record, held by Nurmi, the Finn.

This meet at Chicago should be one of the greatest track meets that it has been our privilege to see in many a day. For those who like their sport clean, snappy and free from all dust of bickering and misunderstanding, it should furnish a pleasant evening.

CANADA'S MAT TEAM WINS

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Canada made a clean sweep of the British Empire wrestling championships yesterday, adding two titles to a pair gained on the opening day of wrestling competition Wednesday.

Reg Priestly, of Winnipeg, defeated Harry Johnson, of England, in the welterweight division, and L. McIntyre, also of Winnipeg, defeated Edgar H. Bacon, of England, in the heavyweight class.

England captured the three-mile run, the hammer throw and the half-mile run, while South Africa accounted for the shot put, discus throw and running high jump.

Williams' great victory was scored in a heat of the 100-yard dash. He was off to a bad start and needed all his vaunted speed to win from W. Gerhardt, of South Africa, with J. R. (Buster) Brown, of Edmonton, third. Williams' time, 9 2-5 seconds, equaled the Canadian record set by Cyril Coaffee in 1923.

Simmons Takes Batting Lead In American

Continuing his great hitting streak of the previous afternoon, Al Simmons slugged his way into the American League batting lead and into fourth place in the Big Six yesterday. He made four hits, one a home run, in five times at bat and brought his average up to .388, a four-point gain. The standing:

Boxer Held After Opponent's Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Jack (Red) Kuehl was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter here yesterday following the death of John Anderson, 18, his opponent in a boxing match Wednesday night.

Physicians attributed death to hemorrhage of the brain. It was Anderson's second professional fight. He lost his first bout in the same arena two weeks ago and later complained of severe headaches. Physicians expressed the belief head injuries received in that bout were aggravated with fatal results.

M.-A. GAMES SCRATCHED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Following a meeting of Middle Atlantic League representatives here last night, President Elmer Daily announced two games had been cut from the won column of the Fairmont club and a loss each had been lopped off Charleroi and Clarksburg. The games will be played over.

The action followed the transfer of Pitcher Pete Beam from the Jeannette club to the Montreal club of the International League and from there to the Fairmont team. The transfer was made during the non-transfer season, it was pointed out.

In yesterday's games Jeannette and Scottdale tied, 2-2, in five innings. Johnstown tripped Clarksburg, 6-2. Fairmont beat Charleroi, 5-3, and Wheeling bumped Cumberland, 2-0.

The heavy rain of yesterday put a crimp into last evening's sandlot schedule but sandlotters can hardly kick seeing that rain is badly needed. The big game of this evening will practically settle the City League title for the Homewood club meets Dormont on the South Hills grounds.

Homewood has been classed as "in" by many sandlotters, but unless the East Enders cop this evening Dormont has a chance. The game should be watched by a capacity crowd. Dormont has been hitting the ball hard of late, and this also goes for Homewood. The outcome will hang upon the pitching.

STEELE MAY HURL

Bimmy Steele, who has had one of his best seasons, probably will twirl for Hank Daly, with Joe Semler also ready to go to the mound. Sproul or Carroll will get this important assignment for Dormont. The game will be called at 6:30 sharp.

Three tilts are scheduled in the loop. The J. L. Thomas aggregation of Bloomfield, will go to Stowe to meet Pop Geers' Civics.

The battle of the North Side will be staged at Wilson Avenue, where the North Side Civics meet Johnny Dunsky's Pleasant Valley Smilers.

THOMAS VICTOR

Yesterday the J. L. Thomas club knocked off Book Shoe, 5-3, in the City League, while Beckman was tripping Lincoln, 5-4, and Pintex was taking Y. M. H. A., 5-1, in the Central circuit.

The Presbyterians lost to Ingram, 5-3, in the Crafton Church loop; Byllesby beat Equitable, 4-2, in the Philadelphia Company league, and the Kokinos Cards blanked Fair Oaks, 2-0, in the Ohio Valley.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

Well, folks, an off day occasionally doesn't hurt a club, especially after it's been through a bunch of double-headers. Of course we have to make the day up tomorrow, but our pitchers are about 500 per cent better off than they was one week ago.

It looks like my roomie will tangle with Tom Zachary today. Tom also flips the ball lefthanded. Larry has had a sore arm but it seems to be comin' around O. K.

Most of our gang figured the Cubs would be in a bad way after all them hard long scraps they was havin' and they certainly did go to pieces in that first game with the Giants. But Joe McCarthy knows how to pull a gang together.

You never know what's gonna happen in this game, and don't be surprised when a good club has a day occasionally when they look like bushers. Look at them Athletics! Cleveland gave them a 15-to-0 pastin' the other day, but the "A's" just laugh that kind off and then go out and then come back with another string of victories. I guess it's better to get a real lickin' every now and then than to be droppin' them by one run. That's the kind that leave a headache.

Well, it won't be long now till the boys will be comin' in from the bushes. And then all of us recruits will have a lot of company. But I haven't been lonesome this summer except when I spent my roll in New York on the first Eastern trip.

I forgot to tell you that the rest of us got a big kick out of Bernie Walter Breakin' into a big league game. Bernie pitched an inning and got three men out jes' as fast as they came up. Maybe he won't have to pitch battin' practice all next year.

LEGION PLAY ADVANCES

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 22.—Bridgeport, Conn., and Baltimore, Md., baseball teams won their way into the Eastern division semi-finals of the American Legion national baseball tournament here yesterday. The Bridgeport team defeated the Charlotte, N. C., nine 11 to 3, and the Baltimore team won the second game of the afternoon from Cincinnati, 5 to 1.

STARS AT ALLIANCE

ALLIANCE, O., Aug. 22.—Local golfers are to be given a rare treat next Tuesday when Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, two outstanding stars of the country, are to appear at the country club. It will be the first appearance of the pair in Alliance.

TILDEN ENTERS NET FINAL

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Bill Tilden, defending champion in the Newport Casino tennis tournament, today advanced into the title round when Frank Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., his doubles partner, defaulted in his favor.

Hunter injured his arm last night during the three-hours battle he and Tilden had to fight with Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, young Californians, to gain a bracket in the semi-finals round of the doubles play. The veteran New Rochelle publisher decided that a singles match with Tilden would aggravate his injury and lessen their chances in next week's national doubles play at Brookline, Mass.

Playing sterling tennis, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., caused an upset when he defeated George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago.

GIANTS GAIN ON CUBS

Associated Press.

By their triumph over the Chicago Cubs yesterday, the New York Giants pulled up to only two games behind the league leaders and registered a half-game gain on the Brooklyn Robins as well. While the Giants were pounding out a 13-to-6 victory, the Robins were kept idle in Cincinnati by rain. The loss of a day put them a game and one-half behind the Giants, but allowed them to gain on the Cubs, as Chicago was the only loser. The distance between first and third places was reduced from four to 3½ games. The standing of the leaders:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	71	48	.597
New York	68	49	.581
Brooklyn	69	53	.566

PEARCE COPS TITLE

BURLINGTON, Ont., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Bob Pearce, Australia's Olympic champion, added the single sculling championship of the British Empire to his list of triumphs yesterday, beating a tired but game Jack Beresford, Henley, England, oarsman, by a length and a half in the final heat of the event.

British Poloists Cop Test Match

ROSLYN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—The British polo team here for the challenge series with the United States for the International Cup in September signalized its competitive debut on Long Island turf yesterday by trouncing a picked Argentine-American quartet, playing under the name of Greentree, 13 goals to 5.

POINT JUDITH, R. I., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Coming from behind, the Fort Sam Houston four, of Texas won the 12-goal polo championship by defeating Rockaway, 10 to 7, here yesterday.

Long's Sport Comment

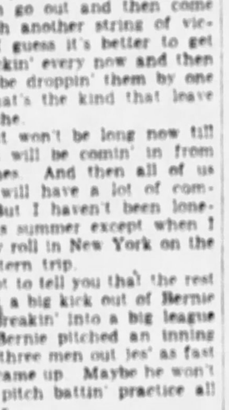
of the old Hulton course almost half a century ago, and who still rate Ned Hanlan the champion of that period, as the greatest oarsman of all time, got a thrill of the bygone out of the news that the feature event of the Royal Canadian Henley at St. Catherines, Ont., had been won by an American crew using the Hanlan style.



Jim Rice

The senior eight-oared championship, carrying with it the Hanlan Memorial Trophy, was captured by the Detroit Boat Club rowers, whose coach is Jim Rice. Fifty years back, the latter was taught by Hanlan how to handle a scull, and in memory of his tutor he has been striving for two decades to win this particular trophy. He calls it the greatest victory of his career.

"HANLAN WAS MY friend and coach," Rice says. "He taught me all that I know about rowing. I stick to his style and mean to do so always, for I think it is the best method in the world of pulling a boat through the water. Our crew won with the style of rowing that Hanlan taught me 50 years ago. Hanlan was the greatest sculler who ever sat in a boat, regardless of size, weight, water or scull. He feared no man, and he feared no course. He engaged in more than 350 races in his career and lost only about half a dozen. Ned won the Canadian championship in 1877, the American honors in 1878, the English title in 1879, and the world crown in 1880. The world has never seen his equal, and I am happy in a victory that keeps his memory and his style alive."

THE GIANTS TIGHTENED up the first-place fight by beating the Cubs in the opening game of the big series in Chicago, cutting the Bruins' pennant lead to two games. In the "Lost" column the margin is even smaller, a difference of only one game separating the clubs.

If the McGrawites can make it three out of four in the series they will be tied with the Cubs in defeats and only two games behind them in victories when the engagement ends on Sunday afternoon.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Tobacco Shares Favored To Lead in General Market Advance

Tobacco shares, notably those identified with the cigaret industry, have been doing well. That group has many friends, judging by the comments heard all over the Street. No attempts at distributions have been made of late. They have had a natural and normal market for some time. Any definite improvement in the price-fixing market probably would find the tobacco shares among those in the lead, for they have good prospects for materially increased sales and earnings in the current year.

Considerable has been said about the effect of the drought on earnings of Continental Can. Those who are long of the stock contend that the prospective decrease has been exaggerated. They admit, however, that because of the drought it will be necessary to make downward revisions in some of the earnings estimates made earlier in the year. A number are standing on the side lines, waiting for definite information before adopting a bullish attitude on the issue.

Bullish interists sponsoring the market movements of Radio and Radio-Keith-Orpheum made a strong effort to hold the line against fresh inroads by the bear element in other directions. Both these popular issues were turned over in large volume and each succeeded in touching a new high level for the movement before reaction that developed in other directions tended to dampen the ardor of the group operating in the stocks. Amusement shares as a group put up a firm front but Warner Brothers, now in the midst of its financing program, was unable to keep the pace, showing a disposition to slip back yesterday.

As expected, the appearance of the first of the July operating statements is finding reflection in lower prices for most of the railway shares. Some of the figures now appearing, as for example, that of the "Nickel Plate," denoting the dullness in the automobile industry, are rather discouraging, yet others are somewhat less unfavorable by comparison with July last year. Wall street is getting around to the point, however, where it is inclined to discuss the possibility of smaller railway dividends early next year unless there is a distinct change for the better in the months ahead.

An observer in one of Wall street's rather prominent houses announced he had embraced the bear side of the market thus occasioning no little surprise for the reason that until this time he had been moderately bullish. Queried on the reason for his sudden change of heart, the party in question replied in all earnestness that he had been moved by the decision of William C. Durant to take a more active part in the actual business of building automobiles. When asked what that had to do with the stock market, he stated that he was inclined to interpret Mr. Durant's move as indicating the latter's conviction that there is not likely to be very much doing in stocks for a while.

The commodity markets drifted into the doldrums in the course of yesterday, movements being rather narrow in grains and in cotton, too, after that market had rallied from the sharply lower opening range. Chicago is disposed to look more hopefully on the grain situation. Wires from that center holding that indications were that the worst was over and the "export situation in wheat now reported healthy." Strength in September corn was regarded warrant by small stocks in sight the present visible supply of that grain being but 2,864,000 bushels as against 7,488,000 bushels a year ago. Country offerings Wednesday brought better than $1 a bushel. Belief in New York is that not even most favorable weather conditions can bring much relief for the food situation.

Aviation Corp. Gets Rio Air Line

Stockholders of both companies will vote on the proposal at special meetings shortly.

Warner Brothers To Answer Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., states that it has been advised that a suit has been filed in the Chancery Court at Wilmington, Del., against the company by Ira I. Wilson of Boston, who, according to records of the company, has 300 shares of stock registered in his name.

The company states that the allegations of mismanagement by directors are unfounded that proper answer and adequate proof disproving them will be made at the earliest possible moment.

In his suit Mr. Nelson asks for a receiver for the company, which he alleges is necessary to protect the interests of stockholders.

Merchandising and Tobacco Shares Advance, While Coppers, Rails Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP.)—The latest bear drive against stocks petered out in today's market, as it found itself up against a stone wall of speculative apathy.

Bull forces resumed operations in the tobacco and merchandise shares on the basis of favorable cigaret consumption statistics for July, and expectations of a seasonal gain in retail trade. During the morning, however, bears depressed some of the coppers, rails and specialties to new low levels. Pivotal industrials were generally firm.

The new American Tobacco shares reached new highs, and the old class B stock sold up more than 6 points, while other tobaccos gained 1 to more than 2. International Business Machines mounted more than 3 in response to announcement of a large backlog of orders, and the safety razor issues rallied on report of continued merger negotiations. Woolworth, Macy and National Department Stores gained a point or more. Such stocks as U. S. Steel, American and General Electric gained slightly. Kennecott, Anaconda, Warner Bros., Illinois Central and Baltimore and Ohio sagged 1 to 2 to new lows, and Allied Chemical sold off more than 3.

BREAKS THEN RALLIES

Filing of a petition for Warner Bros., charging mismanagement, tended to stifle speculative enthusiasm, although the stock broke only a couple of points, and then rallied. It was learned from sources close to the company's bankers that the additional financing of the company will go through on schedule, and that its financial condition is sound. Bankers are planning to take up any of the stock unsubscribed for by stockholders, but the market price has been held substantially above the offering price.

Other motion pictures stocks held up fairly well. Radio-Keith, in which vigorous speculation for the rise has appeared recently, held firm. None too satisfactory earnings are expected for the motion picture concerns for the third quarter, but trade reports indicate that cooler weather has helped theater attendance already, and substantial seasonal improvement is expected in the autumn.

Conspicuous in the day's corporation news was announcement of the halving of the $2 dividend rate by McKesson & Robbins. A statement by the management, however, indicated that the conservation of cash was for the purpose of continuing an aggressive merchandising policy, including liberal advertising expenditures.

SEE TURN OF TIDE

Support for pivotal shares appeared that the tide has actually turned or is about to turn in business. Expectations for the near future, however, remain conservative. The more prominent banking interests are said to be willing to let the stock market drift, so long as it remains relatively stable. The fact that a further reduction of $27,000,000 in brokers' loans was reported for last week, a week of rising prices, was interpreted as indicating that stocks generally remain in strong hands.

The monthly business review by Moody's, making its appearance today, said that owing to the drought, the autumn business revival may not reach its full extent before October.

There was little change in credit, call loans renewing at 2 per cent.

Surplus Freight Cars Reported Off

Class I railroads on August 7 had 447,221 surplus freight cars, a decrease of 7,594 from the preceding week.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Wheat and corn both averaged lower in priced during the early dealings today. Estimates that the Canadian wheat yield this season would total 350,000,000 bushels, nearly all grading No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 and of excellent quality, acted as a bearish influence. Besides, arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg today totaled 412 cars, compared with 77 cars a year ago. Corn price upturns failed to hold in the face of wheat weakness. Opening at ½ cent off to ⅛ cent up, wheat afterward underwent material setbacks all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ cent higher, but receded to below yesterday's finish.

At noon, wheat was ¾-1⅛c net lower and corn ⅜-1⅛c off.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The raw sugar market was unchanged today as far as nearby supplies were concerned with duty trees offered at last paid prices of 3.15c. Shipment sugars were a little steadier. A sale was confirmed of about 20,000 bags of Philippines for August-September shipment at 3.18c. New low records for all time were established in the September position in raw futures, while the later months were influenced by the decline in the September position and renewed selling by houses with Cuban connections.

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.35c for fine granulated, but demand was light and limited to nearby requirements only.

AUTO INDUSTRY HELD KEY TO PROSPERITY

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Most economists feel that general trade pickup is to a large extent contingent on improvement in the basic automobile industry, the new balance wheel of commerce.

A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, and the Pierce Arrow Motor Car Company, is one of the most active and prolific factors in automobile production. Quietly, but definitely, the output of cars of this year. He regards the increasing preference for low-priced cars as only a superficial effect of the depression.

Mr. Rukeyser.

Also, he sees appeals to what the appetite of buyers. Mr. Erskine whose job of lifting Pierce Arrow, out of the red in the last two years has been a noteworthy accomplishment, said:

PENT UP DEMAND

Mr. Erskine said that the decision of motorists to drive their old cars longer had resulted in a pent up demand and that it presaged an increased business in 1931.

Mr. Erskine indicated that his company had effected marked economies and heightened efficiency of operations in recent months.

The executive pointed out that the company had not changed hourly wage standards and it hoped to continue them indicating his belief that high wages are most desirable.

Asked what was needed to stimulate exports, Mr. Erskine said:

"Recovery of some prosperity in foreign countries, which are now as bad off as we are."

Mr. Erskine added that recent experience had strengthened his faith in instalment selling of automobiles.

Regarding the dealer situation, Mr. Franklin said:

"Dealer mortality has been greater than last year. Stocks on hand are much lower."

EFFICIENCY INCREASED

L. A. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland Company, said:

"I do think in periods of depression it is very natural for one to use what he has beyond the time when he would ordinarily buy new and that results in pent up demand.

"Our company has effected great economies and increased our efficiency during recent months. When business returns to normal, the effect of these will be greatly to our advantage.

"We have made no general change in our hourly rates. I would prefer to see present rates maintained and think they can be maintained.

"The selling of automobiles on the instalment plan has not been affected by the depression.

"Export sales have improved year by year and will continue to improve so long as we are able to furnish suitable automobiles at attractive prices."

BANKING SOUND

In issuing a call for the annual convention of the American Bankers Association to be held in Cleveland September 29-October 2, John O. Lonsdale, head of the association and president of Bank of Commerce and Trust Company, St. Louis said:

"The banking business is fundamentally sound. The achievements of the business as a whole in the last decade have been incomparable; it has been the mainspring in a season of unparalleled prosperity, and it has held firm, sound and unmoved in the recent period of stock market deflation. Lying before it are greater opportunities for public service than have ever before been possible in banking, and it is our privilege and our duty to develop these opportunities.

"But notwithstanding all that, the rapidity of modern business change, the strength and daring of business enterprise, the tendency of large scale operations both within and without banking have brought us to the threshold of a new era in banking, wherein our daily routine is likely to be affected by new laws, new circumstances and perhaps a modified public opinion.

"This new era should be better and happier than its predecessor. My only fear in connection with it is that we may fail to think hard enough about it, that we shall fall short in our estimate of it possibilities; that we shall not do our full part in marking out the course of business and of banking but shall leave it to other and less experienced hands."

HOW'S BUSINESS?

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

By FRELING FOSTER

Silk Consumption Over 1925-29 Average

The consumption of raw silk by American mills during the first half of 1930 is compared with the corresponding figures for the past nine years. Nearly all of it is imported from China and Japan. The figures represent bales, the average weight of which is 133 pounds. Source: Silk Association of America.

The consumption of raw silk by the silk goods industry of the United States during the first half of 1930 was slightly higher than the average consumption during the five years from 1925 through 1929. The drop of 11% this year is attributed almost wholly to the tremendous over-production of silk goods during 1929.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Beautiful Girl

But Yetta had very much as Poe would have described as "nature right," and had as much as the wing of Poe's raven. Her complexion would make a toilet soap manufacturer rave because his most talented artiste couldn't duplicate it on the advertising pictures.

Yetta lived up on the Heights with the Papa who was a jewelry paid rabbi, and the Mamma who divided her affections between the Papa and Yetta.

There were plenty of young men up that way who liked Yetta—a lot of them were live youngsters with promise of making good. Those that knew Yetta well were sorry that she wouldn't marry them because they knew they were missing a girl as good as she was beautiful.

"Some day of course Yetta will fall in love," the Mamma said.

Yetta would regard him calmly, mentally calling him a "beast" while she would politely say, "Not so often as once."

Take Reaton Richer—he had begged Yetta for a date regularly.

One day Yetta got fearfully bored with saying that she did not date, especially when a gray-haired would-be Lothario with a gardenia in his buttonhole and an insulting smirk on his face tried to insist.

"Don't tell me a beauty like you has escaped. Come now—why not—"

And so on and so on.

Mr. Evans, manager, was near. Yetta wanted to tell the old goat something pertinent. But she regarded him calmly.

"I never go out—I never make dates, sir," she said.

It was then that an idea came to her. If she could only wear a solitaire on her engagement finger a great many of the men would cease to bother her.

Bessie Weintraub told her about that.

"Why not wear a wedding ring, then, and be more protected?" Yetta asked.

Bessie smiled knowingly. She had a wedding ring and a nice husband. She took the wedding ring off when on duty.

Buys Ring

"Wedding rings are no good for that, Yetta," Bessie explained. "So many men think it's awful smart and devilish to date up a young married woman. But with just a solitaire they seem to feel that you are just engaged and in love and won't listen to anything."

So Yetta took some of her savings and went to Uncle Milton Freilig, whose shop has three golden spheres over the entrance. He had an unredeemed solitaire, only half a carat, to be sure, but in the setting, surrounded by chips, it looked big. He would let Yetta have it at what it cost—so he said.

At any rate, Yetta could afford it because diamonds were all the time increasing in value and it was an investment.

Yetta's Mamma and Papa thought she was clever. They were sorry that so many chaps tried to date her, but proud of her refusals—proud and sure of her.

The solitaire really worked, to quite a degree. Only Bessie Weintraub knew that Yetta wasn't engaged, and Bessie told the other girls that she was.

Any number of experienced young men in the art of "dating" noted the engagement ring and didn't try to date her, or else they put it, "I don't suppose you'd make a date with me?"

It did not down the annoyance of being asked for a date, but Yetta dowsed by those that she had.

Yetta was delighted.

And then one hot day in the subway some of the girls in the Confection Shoppe whispered that the shadows were Yetta hadn't lost it but had broken her engagement.

Well in the advertisements Bessie advised. "Lots of people advertise that they have found something valuable."

Yetta watched the advertisements.

She wasn't very hopeful. Not many people return diamond rings when they find them.

Going home one night the Confection Shoppe closed at 6 every night. Yetta was crossing to the subway when a glint from the gutter struck her eye.

The glint she saw as she stooped to look was from a diamond. The diamond was set in a ring.

Perfect Diamond

"It's phoney—it's bound to be phoney—they don't have diamonds that size," she said disappointedly. She thrust it into her handbag.

At home the papa thought differently. Uncle Milton Freilig at the shop with the three gilt spheres elevated his shaggy eyebrows when he saw it.

My — my. Ach — my—my," he said as he gave it a close examination.

"It can't be real—so big," Yetta said.

Ten thousand what—yesterday's (thalers)?"

No! Dollars! The four small chips are worth three hundred each. The hand-made platinum—and the big stone—very valuable.

He didn't ask her what she intended to do.

Yetta wouldn't wear it because no one would believe that a candy shop girl could afford to wear a genuine ring like that or would have a sweetie with honorable intentions rich enough to afford it.

And then she saw an advertisement.

And it offered a reward of $1,000.

Finder was to bring the ring to Schultz & Shipman, whose office was away downtown. They were attorneys.

Yetta hesitated. They might grab the ring, say the reward offered was a misprint—they might do many such tricks. And so she wrote to them stating that she believed she had the ring, but someone in authority would have to call at her home after 7 and bring cash for the reward.

The next evening, promptly at 7, a young can called and asked for Miss Morris.

Papa and Mama Morris were right on hand to see that he did not snatch the ring and run.

"It is the ring!" the young man exclaimed. "It belongs to a — well, I wouldn't lie to an honest girl—it belongs to my sister who is engaged to a rich man, a movie man from the Coast. Here is your thousand dollars."

Yetta took the "cash money."

"Is your sister rich?" she asked.

"She works, she keeps books," he told her.

Yetta Doubtful

"Oh! Then she will have to pay this thousand herself, from her salary?"

"Isn't it better than to lose a twelve thousand dollar—well, I got to tell you the truth, ninety-six hundred dollars it cost—isn't it better?"

"But can your sister afford it?"

"Sure—better than she can afford to lose the ring and the sentiment—it's a love match."

"Love matches," observed the Papa, "are fine where there is plenty of wealth also."

Papa and Mamma nudged her. Yetta shook her head.

"My name is Laurence Shipman. I'm in the law firm. You keep the money and my sister will call tomorrow night and talk it over," he said.

Laurence Shipmen came with his sister—they came in a nice car. The sister wouldn't take any of the reward. She had money herself. She told Yetta that she was a fine girl. Yetta told about the little solitaire she lost and why she wore it.

Before the week was over Mr. Laurence Shipman went into the Confection Shoppe and waited until Yetta could serve him. He bought a five-dollar box of candy.

"I'd like awfully to make a date with you for tonight, Miss Morris," he said.

"I don't date—" Yetta paused—"er, where? she stammered.

"At your home."

"That's different," said Yetta. And it was.

Her next solitaire wasn't for protection at all, but just to show that she was engaged to Laurence Shipman.

FAMOUS RACKETEERS
Notorious characters who have preyed upon society.

GLASS-EYE HARRY

Note—This is the first of a series of reconstructed crimes to meet the popular demand for depressing reading matter, and counteract the ill-founded optimism concerning the human race which still persists in some quarters.

Few are the policemen who do not shudder at the mention of Glass-Eye Harry, a silk-shirted racketeer who chins himself on the long arm of the law, and does not hesitate to snap his fingers under the noses of judge or jury.

Larry, or Harry as he is called in the underworld, one day had an eye replaced with a glass eye—perhaps to escape detection and identification. He then went up to a vegetable market and pretended to be looking over the vegetables. Suddenly he clapped hand to eye, and exclaimed, "Good gracious! I have lost my glass eye!

The proprietor joined in a hurried but futile search.

"Oh, well," Harry (or Larry) finally exclaimed, "if you find it later I will give you $50 for it."

He then departed.

A few minutes later one of his confederates approached the vegetable dealer and said, "Give me a sack of vegetables."

As the tradesman turned to snatch a sack, the confederate exclaimed, "Oh, oh! . . . What's this? I have just found a glass eye among the carrots, lettuce, etc."

"Not so fast," the confederate hissed, "Finders keepers."

The proprietor, remembering that Larry (or Harry) had offered $50 reward for the glass eye, pleaded, and finally bargained and one word would lead to another, until the poor vegetable man had given the confederate $25 for the glass eye, thinking, of course he would make $25 profit when he got the reward from Larry-Harry.

Action on Town Hall Is Promised at Last

Better late than never! Action should have been taken on the Town Hall a long time ago, since ample opportunity had been afforded to consider the merits of the various sites. Moreover, much annoyance and confusion would have been averted if the County Commissioners had given out some definite statement on the subject. But that is water over the dam. What is to be considered now is that Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong has at last called a meeting to act on the project.

In this he is showing some recognition of public sentiment. The people want the Town Hall built. They voted $6,000,000 for it by a goodly majority, and there have been enough expressions of opinion on the subject since to show that feeling has not changed.

We need the Town Hall so we can accommodate large conventions for which we now have no auditorium sufficiently commodious. We need it for pageants and expositions and shows that cannot be handled in any of the existing halls.

There is, of course, serious divergence of opinion as to where the auditorium should stand. But the Commissioners will have to pick the site eventually, and it is to be hoped that they will not dodge the matter further but will now set about the matter in real earnest.

Usurpation of Authority By Police Magistrates

Charles Richards bought liquor in a North Side confectionery store recently, drank it, and soon afterward died. The liquor is said to have been sold by an 11-year-old boy. Stanley Smith, alleged to be the proprietor of the store, was arrested in connection with the case by the police homicide squad; but when arraigned before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney yesterday was merely charged with keeping a disorderly house and let off with a $50 fine. Sweeney appears to have been guilty of flagrant abuse of authority.

Two years ago magistrates were warned they had no authority to assume jurisdiction in cases involving violation of the liquor and gambling laws, much less in cases of homicide and highway robbery. If a prima facie case of violating the prohibition law or of conducting a lottery, gambling house or slot machine was made against a defendant, it was stated, the magistrate had no alternative under the law but to hold him for the grand jury; and if he failed to do so was guilty of malfeasance and liable to imprisonment.

Not only have magistrates been usurping authority in liquor and gambling cases, but the other day one dismissed with a $10 fine a highway robber who pointed a pistol at his victim.

It is up to the District Attorney to keep an eye on the magistrates. Many of the cases docketed as "keeping a disorderly house" or "disorderly conduct" will bear investigation. It would be a simple matter to have county detectives make inquiries in cases where there is suspicion that the magistrates unlawfully usurped authority.

For police court judges to assume jurisdiction in cases of running speakeasies, lotteries and houses of ill-fame and let the defendants off with fines is equivalent to licensing commercial vice. That is bad enough. For them to usurp authority in homicide and highway robbery cases is still worse.

Poverty Declared No Bar To Medical Treatment

In answer to the question raised in these columns if it was possible that physicians might refuse to treat persons in desperate need of medical treatment because of their inability to pay, it is gratifying to have the assurance of Dr. Alexander H. Colwell, president of the Allegheny County Medical Society, that such a situation is unthinkable.

The question was directly prompted by the case of the girl who offered herself in marriage for $8,000, saying she must have the money to save her father from threatened blindness. It was felt that the implication in this and other cases required some sort of statement on the subject from the medical profession.

We were aware, of course, and so stated, that the hospitals and innumerable physicians in their private practice do a vast amount of charitable work. All honor to them! But at the same time it appeared there was a suspicion in some quarters that there were venal physicians, too, and the Sun-Telegraph reported that suspicion, solely with a view to bringing out the truth. The medical profession, as is well-known, is reluctant to discuss its affairs in the press; and it seemed wrong that it should continue to remain silent under the imputation that some of its members were mercenary.

Dr. Colwell assures us, and his word is accepted without the slightest hesitation, that, regardless of ability to pay, any person in serious need of medical attention can obtain it promptly and ungrudgingly. No one with optical trouble whose vision can be saved by medical treatment or operation need go blind for lack of money. There are dispensaries to which application for help may be made with assurance that it will be forthcoming. And the same thing is true of other illnesses.

So the girl's story that she must have money to save her father from blindness may be dismissed. And when we hear of other cases in which it is supposed to be necessary to raise large sums of money to secure medical treatment for poor people we should take the stories with a grain of salt.

SEC. 2. MUTATION: THE EXPERIMENTING OF THE GERM-PLASM.

Heredity is in its essence a conservative tendency, binding each generation to the organic semblance of the last, and in the preceding exposition of its principles we have treated of the genes as immutable units, shuffled and dealt out in various combinations, but unaltered by their treatment, sometimes lying concealed by dominant partners for generations, but always emerging unchanged, as atoms emerge unchanged from the molecular combinations in which they take part, or as the cards lie on the table unchanged at the end of an evening's bridge.

But now we must tackle an important complication of the story. Sometimes the genes themselves may undergo alteration. Let us consider four concrete instances to show how living things may inherit, and at the same time evolve.

H. G. Wells

In the year 1791 a Massachusetts sheep farmer of the name of Seth Wright was greatly surprised when one of his ewes bore a lamb with the build of a pekinese, having a long back and short bowed legs. Nothing like it had ever appeared in his flock before.

Now it happened that he was sorely perplexed because his sheep used to roam into other people's fields; the fences of Massachusetts, it seems, were low in those days.

So he noted with pleasure that the new arrival was a male. He killed his old ram and reared and bred altogether from the new; and he found the new shape to Mendelize, for thereafter his sheep were always either completely Ancon (as the new shape was called) or completely ordinary.

By picking those of the short-legged type he got in a few years a very considerable flock of animals which were unable to jump over fences—and the variety spread throughout Massachusetts. It was subsequently displaced by the Merino.

After 14 years, a mutation arose which adapted its possessors to different conditions of temperature.

The young of this new type die if kept in the standard temperature conditions. The mutant strain does best at 27 degrees C., dies at 20 degrees, and will tolerate 32 degrees.

Apart from this altered reaction to heat and cold, no other difference could be found between the two strains. Here we have an excellent example of the germ-plasm throwing up a new type which might be of the greatest service to the species in helping it to spread to warmer climates.

The Florida velvet bean could only be grown in Florida and the Gulf states. Suddenly a variety appeared which would flower and set seed in less specialized weather and which could therefore be profitably planted over the whole cotton belt of the United States.

A variety of tobacco appeared which would not flower in Northern U. S. A. (where its parent plants had successfully existed), but which could be made to flower and seed by keeping it under artificial illumination which corresponded in length of day and night with a sub-tropical summer. Suddenly at a bound the strain had fitted itself for an entirely new climate.

Here we have four examples of mutations. A stock has bred more or less true for generations; suddenly something happens in its chromosomes, some innovating change, and an individual with an entirely new feature, a "sport," appears.

Let us be clear about this process. Sometimes a recessive will lurk concealed in a strain for generations and turn up abruptly. Thus, and in other ways, the common shuffling of genes may imitate mutation. But these four novelties recalled no known precedent.

BERNARD TREVISAN

By Archibald Henderson

The youth of today, with aspirations to become a great scientist, scarcely realizes the incalculable advantages he enjoys as the result of our highly organized civilization. Science is systematized, arranged to an extremely high degree of efficiency. The results of scientific knowledge, research and invention, are recorded in thousands of journals, monographs and books.

Mighty laboratories—mechanical, industrial, electrical, chemical—preserve elaborate records of discoveries made beneath their roofs. It is only a question of time, intelligence and application, to learn all that is known about any subject. With that required knowledge as a basis, the scientific research worker may blaze a new pathway into the unknown.

It was not always thus. Four or five centuries ago, science was a mystery, research a strange, haphazard journey through an uncharted realm. Little was positively known, much was suspected, even more was fancifully imagined. Chemistry as a science had not begun. Alchemists dabbled in all sorts of strange liquids, mixed together haphazard all kinds of queer substances. It was not, as Le Gallienne said, the quest of the golden girl: it was, as Bernard Jaffe says in "Crucibles," the quest of the Golden Grail. How to turn base metal into gold? That was the great interrogatory, the burning question of the era.

One of these strange searchers, Bernard Trevisan, who died after a long life of patient investigation and feverish wandering two years before Christopher Columbus discovered America, stands as a type-figure of the pseudo-scientists of that deluded age. Born of distinguished ancestry at Padua, in 1406, Bernard's childish fancy was excited by the strange tales of the alchemists, told him by his grandfather. Early in life he resolved to dedicate his life to the Great Adventure; to discover the secret of the transmutation of metals.

He was encouraged by his parents who had grandiose dreams of a fabulous fortune won by the hoped-for discoveries. Young Bernard set forth with high hopes upon the great quest. He did not know where he was going, but he was on his way.

There is something arresting, yet strangely pathetic, in the haphazard, wholly unscientific search for one hypothetical secret which would revolutionize the world. Trevisan may have divined one of the great secrets when he set down these thoughts:

"Lead and other metals would be gold if they had time. For 'twere absurd to think that nature in the earth bred gold perfect in the instant; something went before. There must be remoter matter. Nature doth first beget the imperfect, then proceeds she to the perfect.

"Besides, who doth not see in daily practice art can beget bees, hornets, beetles, wasps out of the carcasses and dung of creatures? And these are living creatures, far more perfect and excellent than metals."

Over a period of years Trevisan made countless experiments with metals, substances, matter of various sorts. He boiled, dissolved, crystallized these various things in all sorts of combinations and concatenations. He wasted a fortune in these fruitless and misdirected efforts. They had the strange idiosyncracy of always leading nowhere.

The secret must lie in man—his blood and urine. When that failed Trevisan went to the sea, seeking there the philosopher's stone. Combining silver and mercury, he placed them in crucibles and exposed them to the action of the sun's rays. But the Great Change never came!

Science is a jealous mistress. Energy, persistence, faith can accomplish nothing enduring by work which is composed merely of chapters of accidents. Science must build on the known and follow the guidance of tutored intelligence.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

High Speed

Capt. Hawks envisions the pony air express from New York to Los Angeles in 12 hours. That's 3,000 miles as the crow never flew.

"Bugs" Baer

It is magnificent to be way up there on the haphazard mezzanine clattering along like a cat with walnut shells on its feet. You are making 300 miles an hour with the wind bobbing your eyebrows and your pulse drowning out the roar of the motor.

If you have never experienced the sensation we will tell you about it. If you have you can tell us about it.

You leave New York after breakfast. You start picking your teeth and land in Los Angeles without 'em.

Three hundred miles an hour is terrific. It took Capt. Hawks exactly 1,000 miles to eat a sandwich. There is no use looking over the side of the boat and saying, "What town is that?"

Because by the time you ask, "What town is that?" it ain't that town any more.

The wind whistles through your bulldozed whiskers like the sound of many trombones. Forests, mountains and Elks lodges race by like hot and cold running wildcats. Boston looks like a pansy bed. Barnum's main tent resembles a lily cup. The Woolworth Building is an ice cream cone.

You grit your teeth to keep your tonsils in. Your nerves get tighter than 12 snare drums. The United States looks like a very valuable collection of postage stamps.

Of all Australian pursuit races there is none more exciting than chasing the sun. When you are flying that fast you are getting kicked in the face by all the climate in the world.

Just when you are about to yell quits the captain presses an inquisitive toe on the gas. The celestial ironing board quivers and jumps 50 miles an hour quicker.

You get the 13 original states in your vest pocket. Ohio, Missouri, Arizona and Wyoming slip under you like wet bath mats. The Rockies look like a hobo's pocket comb.

You're in California on time. Exactly 12 hours to the dotted line. In the history of man no living animal has ever achieved that speed unless he was getting kicked out of a speakeasy.

They tell us the sensation is magnificent.

We may try it some day.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of names such as Mort Cobb, Delbert Clura, Lonnie Delk and Flint Sprader? The glad boys who thump you and cry "Cheerio!" How many remember George Fitch's Siwash stories? That bored serenity of white wolf hounds.

Frank W. Crowninshield, a Paris, France, boy, who made good in the city. Landscape contractors. Motor boat salons. Aeroplane ateliers. Samuel Untermeyer, who charges $12,000 a day for legal services. And gets it. Zebra striped shoes. Julian Street and his son.

Will H. Hays dashing into Ritz Tower. British shops with the pick of Piccadilly clerks, featuring pipes, tobacco, pewter, humidors, walking sticks and lighters. A priest stops to talk to a legless beggar. Those fat, derbied men around a Magistrate's court.

Little spits of rain suddenly fall and suddenly vanish. Rarely see a white horse in New York. John Anderson, the dramatic critic. A lady with a lorgnette is always a duchess to me. Wonder how they will handle traffic in ten years. Eva Le Gallienne is paler than ever.

Boys with berets and Eton collars. And varnished hoops. Nursemaids who would give Ziegfeld a start. You have to go to Brooklyn to see a baby carriage. Neat grandpas who take grandchildren for a stroll. The shop that sells celluloid ties and collars to Park avenue butlers.

Girls who achieve that Katharine Cornell chalk-white. And sport mile-long cigaret holders. Overcoat Phillip, who wears overcoats the year around. And decorates them with pins. Rollin Kirby, the cartoonist. Nothing so cute as a chubby Jap baby.

Photographers who gather for society weddings and look bored. Joe Smith, of Westport. The hotel district springing up on Lexington avenue. A Paris divorcee who hasn't spoken to a man since her divorce four years ago. Or so it is reported. Wish I could run across some home-made jelly!

The first skyscraper in New York was the Latting Observatory, built in 1853 on the site of the Salmon Tower, West 42d. It rose 350 feet of old lumber braced with iron and had an elevator so shaky few would risk it. The cost was $180,000 and it was named for Warren Latting, who built it.

Twelve rich New Yorkers are "buffs," having private fire boxes in homes. Minor fires do not interest, but a 12-alarm brings 11 on the gallop and one in a wheel chair. They began as volunteers and never lost the thrill of a whopping blaze.

Always variety in midtown for those hospitable to life's various manifestations. Tenth avenue and 46th street. Dusk. A midget pops into the middle of the thoroughfare gravely to direct traffic. Soon all is in a snarl. A policeman tucks the squirming midget under his arm and makes for a station house. The Lilliputian had a single drink in a speakeasy and got that way.

And Frank Tinney used to tell of the alcoholic who eluded the trailing blue alligator by walking around a post hurriedly three times and hopping on a street car. Then there was Tinney's yarn of the drunk stepping from a street car, turning a somersault and skidding on his ear into a gutter. Arising with dignity and dusting himself off, he would explain to first aid samaritans: "I always get off that way."

An indifferently named speakeasy in East 52nd is "The Wide Open." And why so many other wide open ones on that street?

"I am told," writes a lady from the Hotel Weylin, "you sent the wife of a novelist one of those whirring dinguses that pop out of letters and scare the recipient to death. Of course, you jerk chairs from trembling old ladies. What else do you do to be amusing?"

Rock boats and start forest fires.

Isn't It So?

You have to cultivate good habits. The bad ones grow wild.

It is not always the most staid people who have the most staying power.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I am always amazed at the complacency of parents. Not that there aren't many parents with great reason for pride—but consider the rank and file.

Here are two mediocre mortals. They may be amiable and industrious enough, but they certainly aren't mental heavyweights. They have made little advance in their own lives. Their social and industrial standing is practically nil. You wouldn't trust them to make even a good chicken coop. And suddenly they produce a Miracle! A Miracle which the wisest man on earth can't explain—the most delicate, complicated and precious of all phenomena. But do these two mortals gaze upon this Miracle, with awe? Do they doubt their ability to understand and operate it? Anything but! Without an instant's hesitation they assume their perfect competence and you criticize them at your peril.

Now, if these two people had undertaken any other craft they would have had to spend laborious months and years in learning its technique. They could not have become plumbers, dressmakers, sign painters, beauty operators, carpenters—much less professionals of any kind—without elaborate training. Yet, with never doubt on their part, and never a dissent on ours, they undertake the most difficult and important job on earth.

For we Americans, who demand so much from other workers and who pride ourselves on our technical thoroughness, demand nothing of parents but Love. This "love" may be merely a maudlin glossing over of stupidity, selfishness, laziness and general cussedness—it may be as far removed from spiritual values as a case of hiccoughs or a dose of hives—but I dast you to say so! How our hearts are wrung at the sight of a Mother's Tears!

Yet, seven times out of 10, she's crying over the inevitable results of her own incompetence. And what poetry is spilled over Mother's Wrinkled Hands? But do we ever ask if mother has any wrinkles on her brain? Yet if any brain needs wrinkles, it's a mother's.

There is no work that requires more intelligent and continuous study than child training. A child's mind is the most complicated mechanism on earth. During the first years of life, the future character is determined. Carelessness, stupidity or unkindness during those years will leave lasting scars on the character . . . scars which will not only affect the child, but the society of which he is a part. Parents owe a duty to their children and to posterity to equip themselves intelligently for the greatest and most demanding of all crafts, child rearing.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Today's My Day

Today's my day—how do I know?
Because the sunlight, falling so,
Aslant across the forest floor,
Wakes all my fairest hopes once more!
Because the winds, birds, flowers all say,
Be glad! Be glad! This is your day!

Today's my day! How can I tell
That I am certain all is well,
And, though the rest were sweet and bright,
This marks a summit of delight?

How leave the past without regret,
Secure today is better yet?
Because this latest gift of time
Is mine, a heritage sublime;
Still fresh, untouched, unshaped until
I fashion it to meet my will;
So, joyous as the sun's first ray,
I greet this priceless gift, my day!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you so anxious to talk when in company with friends that you monopolize most of the time?

You have a number of good stories which you think you tell in an interesting or amusing style and you want to tell them.

Your experiences you believe to be far more exciting in their nature than the happenings to most folk.

Your great desire is to be the life of the party.

But everybody has unusual incidents in their lives, to tell if they wish, but they have no desire to use so much of others' time relating them.

If you have followed the practice of talking too much you have missed many opportunities to learn facts which might be of value to you and make you a still better conversationalist when there is use for that quality as a guest.

You cannot fit yourself for such a place if you insist upon doing most of the talking.

Text for Today Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul; but the soul of my Lord shall be bound in the bundle of life with the Lord thy God: and the souls of thine enemies, them shall He sling out, as out of the middle of a sling.—1. Samuel, xxv: 29.
